WE NOMINATE

Vincent Gaston Dethier, one of the world's leading neurophysiologists and very much in local headlines for the past several weeks for his researches with caterpillars, who should ride high on Christmas Best-Seller Lists with the publication of a thoroughly delightful, slim volume, "Fairweather Duck." Somehow or other this 55-year old man of science has taken a black duck of unknown origin and has created what well might be a classic: "a satisfying unsentimental story of one of those rare, joyful sometimes slightly bewildering associations between human beings and a wild animal who chances to be, in the eyes of scientific colleagues, an aberrant duck."

This fall Dethier, Class of 1877 Professor of Zoology at Princeton University, has been offering between a nickel and a dollar a head for the various types of caterpillars he is using for a National Science Foundation-sponsored research project. By making a thorough investigation of the taste and smell in caterpillars, Dethier hopes to discover a biological means of insect control to be used as an alternative to insecticides and suggests that "if as much money was put into research on biological control of insects as was put into the development of insecticides, we'd probably be able to do away with insecticides right now."

Using insects as experimental subjects, Dethier, the son of a Belgian musician and a native of Boston, Mass., has been recognized primarily for his study of the host/plant relationships of plant-feeding caterpillars and his investigations of the chemical senses of insects. He has also made major contributions to the field of comparative psychology with his work uncovering the mechanisms of hunger and satiation in insects, particularly the blowfly, and his application of the concept of motivation to these animals.

Following the four-year hiatus created by World War II, during which Dethier rose to the rank of major in the African Middle East Theatre with the Army Air Force, he returned to the study of the chemical senses of insects, essentially to a long series of investigations, still continuing, of the blowfly, that constitute his most significant contribution to sensory physiology. From this, almost as a by-product, came the brilliant popular book (1962), "To Know A Fly," a volume showing that the creative scientist "is fundamentally no different from other people with a calling in life."

After the war Dethier, who received all three of his degrees at Harvard University, held professorships at Ohio State University and The John Hopkins University. He spent half a year in the Belgian Congo as a Special Fellow of the Belgian-American Educational Foundation in 1952, a year at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine as a Fulbright Scholar, and a year at the Landbouwhogeschool te Wageningen, Netherlands, as a Guggenheim Fellow (1961). He was initially appointed to the University of Pennsylvania faculty in 1958 and was called to Princeton in 1967 with the rank of Professor of Biology.

Dethier received the honorary degree of Doctor of Science from Providence College in 1961 and is a member of both the National Academy of Sciences and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He has also headed the American Society of Zoologists.

For his capacities, rare among scientists, for being able to communicate effectively with laymen as well as with professional colleagues; for his capabilities for recreating the natural world; for understanding that one and all do "love a duck;" he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

Democrats Win Borough and Township Races; Achieve Control of Both Governing Bodies

In apparent repudiation of long years of Republican leadership, Princeton turned left, Tuesday, giving both of its municipalities simultaneous majorities in the Democratic party for the first time since they were incorporated early in the 19th century.

With the victory at the polls for Township Democratic candidate Jay Bleiman, his party will have its first mayor in that municipality. When a new mayor is elected on January 1, he is virtually certain to be James A. Floyd, who will become the community's first black mayor. Unlike the borough, the five committeemen select a mayor from among their number and with the upcoming Democratic majority created by Mr. Bleiman's election, Mr. Floyd is expected to be his party's choice.

Martin P. Lombardo

Joseph P. Moore

Junius J. Bleiman

Clear cut victories for Council candidates Joseph P. Moore and Martin P. Lombardo gave the Democrats an unprecedented 5 to 1 majority in the Borough. The Borough has had two Democratic mayors in the past quarter century, but never before have five members of the governing body represented that party at one time.

Results here were a sharp reflection of the trend running toward the Democrats at both the Congressional and County levels. Sen. Harrison Williams won easily over Nelson G. Gross, the candidate for whom President Nixon came to New Jersey, while Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., was a landslide victor in the Fourth District over Edward A. Costigan of Lawrence Township. Sen. Williams became the first member of his party from New Jersey to win a third term in the U.S. Senate.

Democrats also won four of the five Mercer County races: for sheriff, for county clerk and for two of the three places on the Board of Freeholders. The GOP had waged an active race to end the 20 year hold Democrats have had on county government, but instead merely traded seats when Dominick D. Iorio narrowly won and incumbent Regina H. Meredith was defeated.

The News Came Early. Mr. Bleiman's victory was known less than half an hour after the polls closed, as Township districts tallied their figures rapidly. His final total was 2,686 compared to 2,561 for Charles E. Meyer Much of Mr. Bleiman's margin was compiled in the first district (Leigh and Birch Avenues), where he polled 229 to 49 for his opponent, and in the third (the Butler Project on Harrison Street), where he drew 463 votes to 116 for Mr. Meyer. The latter did well in both the tenth (Shady Brook) and the 11th (Edgerstoune).

The Township, where a surprising 74% of the electorate went to the polls, in effect split its ticket. Sen. Williams and Rep. Thompson received sizable majorities (not far from 2 to 1) over their opponents, but the three Republican freeholder candidates outpolled the opposition, albeit in a losing cause.

Just as Mr. Floyd is likely to become Princeton's first black mayor, so Mr. Moore now ranks as the first member of his race to be named to Borough Council. He led the four man ticket, polling 1,849 votes to 1,834 for his successful running mate, Mr. Lombardo. The losing Republicans, Mr. Skillman and Mr. Taggart, achieved the political rarity of compiling identical totals: 1,460 apiece.

Although their big margin of nearly 400 votes was not at tributable to any one district, the Democrats earned the highest majority in memory in the sixth (John-Witherspoon). Mr. Moore received 236, Mr. Lombardo, 225, compared to 30 for Mr. Taggart and 22 for Mr. Skillman. With the 1971 mayoralty race already less than a year away, the Republican Club of Princeton may well begin to ponder the reasons for such a landslide defeat even before the snow flies.

And Elsewhere . . . Districts with high Princeton University representation (two and three) were others to give the Moore Lombardo pairing good margins, as did seven (the Stanworth area). The Republicans, on the other hand, took the first (University Place Alexander Street) by a slim margin, held up fairly well in the traditionally Democratic fourth (the "tree streets"), but lost the fifth (Moore Jefferson) which has gone to the GOP in the past, nor did they earn the usual bushelful of votes their party has harvested in the eighth (Library Hodge Cleveland).

For Mr. Lombardo, loser by a single vote in 1969, it was a night of triumph as he increased his losing total by more than 200 votes and ran more strongly in virtually every district. He and Mr. Moore, a year or two short of 30, are the youngest candidates ever to be elected to Council.

Simple Arithmetic. The Democrats accordingly will take over the two seats held by Republicans who did not seek re election. Retiring on January 1 will be Alan W. Carrick, after three terms, and Fred R. Peterson after one.

The newcomers will serve with Councilmen Robert Hendry, Alice Male and James Andrews, giving Mayor Robert Cawley only Councilman Charles Carnforth as a member of his party. At Democratic headquarters Tuesday night, Mr. Andrews foresaw "more rapid progress toward needed legislation and increased citizen participation in government" as results of his party's victory.

Only a matter of 47 votes prevented the Democrats from making a clean sweep of the once traditionally Republican Borough. That was the margin by which Mr. Iorio edged by Paul J. Sollami, the Democratic Freeholder candidate who also was low man on his ticket here.

Sen. Williams and Rep. Thompson both won by more than 2 to 1. The Borough turnout was only slightly behind that of the Township's. 71% of those registered casting ballots.

Both Princetons favored the public questions overwhelmingly. The Borough voted 1,579 to 1,071 in favor of lowering the voting age to 19, the Township approved, 2,728 to 1,581. Partisan Freeholder candidate who also favored remission of real estate taxes to those 65 or over was backed in the Borough, 2,111 to 407; in the Township, 3,504 to 817.

The election went into history with one unanswered question: Princeton is not a community where President Nixon is widely loved and respected, and he had a difficult time at the polls here in 1968, long before he began his divisive campaign tactics this fall.

In the face of the unprecedented Democratic victories in Borough and Township, analysts may long wonder to what extent the controversial role wearing authored by President Nixon and Vice President Agnew backfired in Princeton, N.J.

WILLIAMS, THOMPSON WIN

Democrats Win Easily. Credited by one major network with victory no more than 23 minutes after the polls had closed, Sen. Harrison Williams won re-election Tuesday with some 54% of the votes on a state wide basis. In Mercer, he received more than 52,000 to 45,000 for Nelson G. Gross. So quiet a campaign did the incumbent run, when all smoke signals indicated success, that one pundit described his tactics as "how to win an election without really trying."

Rep. Thompson, who first went to Washington in 1954, was returned for a ninth consecutive term. His margin of 20,000 in Mercer (53,000 to 33,000) over Edward A. Costigan easily offset the opinions recorded in the more Republican strongholds of Hunterdon, Sussex and Warren counties which round out the fourth district.

Mercer County gave a narrow victory in the Freeholder race to Dominick D. Iorio, one of the three Republican candidates, who won by approximately 900 votes over the low Democrat, John S. Watson. The latter was the only Negro ever to serve on the county governing body.

Mrs. Regina Meredith, one of the Republican incumbents, lost her bid for re-election by more than 3,000 votes out of some 90,000 cast. Paul J. Sollami, who topped the ticket, and Gilbert Lugossy, were the Democratic victors whose success assured control of the board.

Sheriff Charles Kovacs and County Clerk William H. Falcey won easily. Both were Democratic incumbents.

REPUBLICANS WIN

In Nearby Communities. The Democratic surge recorded in Princeton and elsewhere in the state was not manifest in all Mercer County municipalities. Republicans won in West Windsor, Pennington and both Hopewells.

In West Windsor Republicans Mel Firman received 1,121 votes and his running mate, Charles Hofman, 1,074. They were the victors over Democrats Michael Greshack, with 1,058, and C. Lance Marshall, Jr., 1,019. Absentee ballots fig ures were still missing as of Wednesday morning, but were not expected to change the result.

NEXT TOWNSHIP MAYOR. With the Democrats now holding a 3-2 majority on Township Committee, James Floyd is expected to become his party's first mayor in that municipality.

In Hopewell Township, Republican incumbent Carleton A. Lawrence won over George C. Rein, 2,077 to 1,680, keeping the Democrats from earning representation on the five-man committee. Voters also authorized their governing body to continue battling the I 95 freeway alignment, defeating a referendum which would have ended the court battle. The vote was 1,937 to 1,562.

In Hopewell Borough, Republican George F. Cramer, Jr., won with 460 votes, followed by his running mate, William H. Walker, 441. The defeated Democrats were Sal Asaro, 293, and William Fangston, 210. Unopposed for tax collector Mrs. Ruth E. Carver, Republican, polled 553.

In Pennington Borough, Republican Ezra Bixby received 497 to lead the ticket, followed by George Pearson with 483. The two GOP candidates defeated Alfred Vogel, 428, and Wesley Johnson, 389. Nearly 80% of the voters went to the polls.

TOWNSHIP ZEROES IN

On Illegal Roomers. The army has its search and destroy missions; the Township is in the process of a search and evict mission to uncover illegal roomers in a residential area surrounding Princeton Hospital.

Impetus for the investigation by Township building inspector Joseph Shinn came last month when Committee was informed by Bernardino Toto that many single family dwelling owners near the hospital rent out rooms. Such boarders are banned by Township ordinance.

Mr. Toto himself was ordered to cease and desist after an anonymous caller tipped off officials that he was renting space to a student at Westminister Choir College.

Princeton Hospital has also come under scrutiny in the investigation after residents in the area testified that it is allegedly housing nurses in homes it owns in the Harris Road area. Attorney Gordon Griffin advised Committee that the hospital has not followed proper procedure if any such quarters were opened after 1967 without obtaining a special permit and site plan approval.

Mr. Shinn's investigation of the hospital is not complete, administrator Joseph R. Nini told Committee Monday night.

Public Hearing Set. A public hearing on the $153,000 Mt. Lucas Road sewer project has been set for December 7.

Property owners will be assessed for all but 6 percent of the job. Township engineer Joseph Hodak said that he hopes to receive bids during the winter. He added that the proposed lines would link the new regional sewer plant in Rocky Hill to Princeton's northern ridge by late spring.

In other action, Committee paid off $44,801 of its long term debt that it is temporarily financing, leaving some $800,000 to bond by next May included in the latter is construction of the Community Park swimming pool complex and parking yards and the purchase of open space tracts. Committee acted under a new state law which permits towns to stay with temporary financing at lower interest, as long as they pay a year's amortization on bond projects.

RATE HIKE GRANTED

To Public Service. A $41.3 million interim rate hike has been granted the New Jersey Public Service & Cas Company, but on the condition that every dollar of the increase be put to work and not into stockholders' pockets. The condition was ordered by William E. Ozzard, president of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

The new rates will go into effect for service billed on or after December 1, 1970. Of the amount, $36 million will come from increased electric rates and almost $5 million in increased gas rates.

What it means for the individual householder is an 8% increase in his electric bill and a 2.2% increase in his gas bill.

The hike was justified, Mr. Ozzard said, "on the basis of a need for funds to finance major construction projects for benefit of the customers." The company had requested an interim hike of $57 million. The original request made by Public Service in March, 1970, had been for $71,961,000.

BOOSTERS BEGIN CLUB

For Hopewell Valley. The first meeting of the HoVal Boosters Club will be held at 8:15 p.m. this Monday in the auditorium of the Hopewell Valley Central High School. A brief concert by the school orchestra at 8 will preface the meeting.

John Todd of Titusville is acting president of the parents group that organized the club. A statement of purpose will be adopted at the meeting; officers will be elected and a chartering committee appointed.

Mr. Todd has announced that the Central High School instrumental music program will be the first beneficiary of the HoVal efforts. The club, also hopes to work with other interests in the Hopewell Valley schools and communities, "so that we might achieve a genuine spirit of involvement and support regarding all educational, cultural and entertainment activities throughout Hopewell Valley," Mr. Todd said.

MISCHIEF NIGHT?

"Wasn't Too Bad." Unless you were one of the isolated victims, most Princetonians would probably agree with the "It wasn't too bad" assesment of mischief night by Borough Chief Peter J. McCrohan.

Township police reported the usual incidents of leaf fires, egg throwing and firecrackers. About a half dozen fire hydrants were opened, they said.

Three juveniles, two 13 and one 11, were arrested at 11:30 Friday night at the Rug Mart on Route 206 by Township patrolmen David Cromwell and Jerry Offredo. Charged with malicious mischief for breaking the windshield wipers and letting the air out of the tires of a Rug Mart delivery truck, they were turned over to Detective Anthony Pinelli.

In a more serious incident involving two Township residents a 16 year old youth was treated at Princeton Hospital after he was struck by a home owner.

According to police, the owner, who had been hiding in the bushes, jumped up and struck the youth in the face after the youth had thrown an egg at his house. The victim fell to the pavement where he hit his head and was knocked unconscious.

The man's wife called police who in turn called an ambulance. No charges have been filed, said Detective Samuel Bianco.

Stones and Battles Thrown. Borough police report numerous incidents of stone and bottle throwing, especially in the Clay Street and lower Witherspoon area. Stones were hurled at the windows of Forer's Pharmacy 160 Witherspoon Street, and Aljon's Submarine Shop, 157 Witherspoon, but there was no damage at either store. It marked the first time in several years that a window at Forer's had not been broken. Police were stationed in the area.

A boat trailer was pulled across Hamilton Avenue and almost caused an accident before it was removed, cars were spray painted in the rear of 100 Stockton and papers on a porch at 51 Maple were set afire but they burned out without causing any damage.

In mischief involving cars, a windshield and antenna of a car parked in the Public Library lot were broken, as was a car windshield on Washington Road; wires and a distributor cap were removed from under the hood of a car on Moran Avenue, and an egg was dropped in the gas tank of a car on Hamilton.

Windows were reported broken on Quarry Street, East Stanworth, John and at the Tastebud Luncheonette, 382 Nassau. In addition there were, as in the Township, sporadic leaf fires, firecrackers, and turned on hydrants.

"It was all pretty petty stuff, when you consider everything," said Chief McCrohan.

A Look Ahead

November tune
Harvest moon
(With frost)
Due soon.

When skies aren't cloudy these November nights, you can see the moon a-building toward the big, orange ball that signifies traditional harvest-time. The calendar says it will round in full on Friday, the 13th.

Meantime, the temperature is dropping slowly, although nothing extra chill is immediately in sight. A chance of rain is part of Friday's forecast, with the weekend expected to be rather mild as Indian Summer retains its pleasant grip on the countryside.

Car Jumps Curb. An accident took place in the Borough during mischief night when a car jumped the curb and struck a tree on Hawthorne after turning off Moore.

Peter Ferrara, 18, 476 N. Harrison Street, the owner who was a passenger in the car was taken to Princeton Hospital, x rayed for possible head injuries and released. The car, its entire front end damaged, had to be towed away.

Police charged the driver, William B. Shepley, 19, of Dutchtown Zion Road, Skillman, with careless driving. He told Sgt. Ralph Procaccino that he had not been used to driving the car and as he made his turn, he "stepped on the gas and it got away from me."

WINDSOR MAKES PLANS

For Student Phase Out. With construction scheduled to begin on its new secondary school in February or March, the West Windsor Plainsboro Regional School Board has begun considering four plans for withdrawing its 450 students from Princeton High School, with the least disruption to their studies.

The board is planning on the full of 1972 for the opening of the seventh through 12th grade school. It plans to advertise bids on the $6.9 million building next January.

The board met with parents of eighth, ninth and tenth grade students and their parents several weeks ago. These three grades will be the most affected by the switch. At a meeting last week Superintendent John F. Hadden outlined four possible plans for withdrawing the students from PHS.

The first alternative would start just ninth graders at the new school in 1972, and leave the 10th through 12th graders to graduate from PHS. A second possibility would be to enroll also tenth graders at the new school, after they had finished their freshman year at PHS.

Plan three would leave just seniors at PHS and the fourth would switch all four grades to the West Windsor school immediately. Dr. Hadden indicated the first and second choices were best, and commented that he preferred the first.

One of the difficulties that would arise if Plans Three or Four were implemented would be the need to establish comparable curriculum at West Windsor. A junior taking a third year Russian course at PHS would have to have one provided at the West Windsor school, if he was transferred, Dr. Hadden noted.

Dr. Hadden said the board has not discussed the four potential plans with the Princeton Regional School Board, and is not committed. Robert C. Duncan, board president, said he hoped the two boards can meet within the next month.

Cost is another factor that will have to be considered in choosing a plan. The district presently pays $1,275 per student in tuition to Princeton and Mr. Duncan noted that money will be saved when the secondary school opens.

NINE ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Nine Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough Court by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr.

Helen Bess, 44, 168 John Street, and Raymond R. Hoagland, 36, Copper Mine Road, Griggstown, were each fined $20 for speeding. Paying fines of $15 each were Stephen Palmer of 11 Willow Road, Lawrenceville, late inspection; John Riabene, 56, 31 Leavitt Lane, careless driving; and Marvin Durland, 20, Princeton Road, Plainsboro, defective muffler.

Paying $12 each were Yon Talin, 26, 69 Jefferson Road, failure to stop for a flashing red signal; Robert Millar, 61, Magie Apartments, stop sign; Henry L. Beidler, 55, 200 Hamilton Avenue, improper turn; and Forrest Greswold, 23, 244 Fisher Place, red light. Mr. Greswold also paid a second fine of $10 for no license in possession.

In criminal court, Edward Dugger, 43, no home address, was sentenced to 30 days in the Mercer County Workhouse as a disorderly person. He was charged by the police with loitering in Princeton Hospital while under the influence of alcohol.

THEFT REPORT

Wallets, TV, Shotgun Taken. Borough police reported a number of separate thefts this week involving wallets, a television set and a shotgun.

Barbara Brant, 158 Spruce Street, told police Monday afternoon that a neighborhood youth had stolen $13 from her purse in her house. By the time police located the youth, he had spent the money.

He was taken to Woolworth's where his purchases were exchanged for the money which was then returned to the victim.

William J. Armiger Jr., 297 Prospect Avenue, reported the theft of a 12 guage shotgun from a second floor closet. The gun was taken between October 11 and Monday, he said.

William Stewart, a roomer in a boarding house at 184 Witherspoon Street, reported the theft of a television set from his room. He told police that he believed the lock on his door had been slipped. He placed no value on the set.

At 6:45 p.m. Monday, Ami Sussman of Belle Mead came to headquarters to report that her leather purse had been stolen from her desk in Green Hall. It contained $60, she said.

She told police that she had left her office around 4 and when she returned an hour later her purse was gone.

Terrell Nash, 230 Brown Hall, Princeton Seminary, reported that she lost her purse on Dickinson Street or that it was taken from a hall table at

Borough Police Aid in Trenton Emergency

The strife and tension created in Trenton last week by the busing of school children affected not only the entire city police force but those of surrounding communities as well, including Princeton Borough.

Both Borough and Township police have been on a standby alert since Thursday, the first day of disturbances. The need to use Borough police was lessened when State Police were called into Trenton to help enforce a curfew. The Borough force was standing by, however, to back up Lawrence Township, which had imposed a curfew of its own, Chief Peter J. McCrohan said.

On Monday, when schools reopened in Trenton and limited busing continued, the Borough sent one patrol car and four men to Trenton where they were assigned to the 2d Precinct. Working from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. were Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, Ptl. Arthur Jackson, Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt.

From 2 to 5, the Borough's Sgt. John J. Bellow and Patrolmen Victor Fasanella and David Lewis went to Trenton. Ptl. Lenhadt remained there to join them.

Chief McCrohan reported that all his men have left telephone numbers with their respective squad sergeants where they can be reached at any hour. "We can get a squad in here, fully equipped and ready to go in about 20 minutes," he said. All borough patrolmen have received training in riot control.

53 University Place. Her loss: $8.

Wayne Blaser, 215 Brown Hall, lost articles valued at a total of $547 last week, after his room was entered and ransacked. Police said that he lost a tape recorder, amplifier, typewriter, a record case with 50 albums, a pair of football shoes and a coin bank. They added that the lock to his door had been slipped to gain entry.

A lock was slipped or a key used, police said, to enter the apartment of Richard White and Diana Wilkins, 226 John Street. Mr. White lost stereo equipment. Miss Wilkins $30 in cash from a purse. Total loss was $430.

A Trenton resident, Mrs. Beatrice Cramer, told police Friday that a brown suede purse was taken from the front seat of her car while it was parked in the rear of 22 Chambers Street.

She lost $106 and personal papers, police said. Her car was unlocked.

3 SPEAKERS ANNOUNCED

By Adult School. An architect, a feminist and a poverty agency head will speak this Thursday at the Adult School's three major lecture series at Princeton High School.

J. Robert Hillier will analyze "Architecture As a Reflection of Its Time: The Crack in the Mirror" in the series devoted to Art Forms in Today's World. Mr. Hillier, a Princeton architect whose firm won awards from the New Jersey Chapter of the American Institute of Architects last year and this, holds a B.A. and M.A. from Princeton University.

His illustrated talk includes slides of local architecture and a discussion of the thesis that architecture is the perfect balance of social and natural forces. He speaks at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Professor Elaine Showalter, of Douglass College, author of the up coming book "Victorian Women and Menstruation," is this Thursday's speaker in the Exploring the New Feminism series. Her topic is "Women Writers and Feminine Experience."

Mrs. Showalter specializes in literature of the Victorian period, history of the novel and women writers. She has taught courses on the modern British novel and the Women Writer in the 20th Century and the Educated Woman in Literature. She is an editor of Women's Liberation: A Thematic Sourcebook on Feminism in Literature. Her lecture will be given at 9 p.m. in the auditorium.

"New Communities: Environmental and Socio economic Alternatives" is the title of the lecture at 9 p.m. by Alan Mallach, director of program development for the Office of Economic Opportunity in the state Department of Community Affairs. His lecture at 9 p.m. in the cafeteria is part of the continuing series on Spatial Environment.

Mr. Mallach, a graduate of Yale, was head of the community development planning program for the state prior to his present post and initiated a number of activities in housing and new community development. He has also worked for the New Jersey Housing Finance Agency, Community Progress Inc. of New Haven, Child Development Group of Mississippi and Yale University.

BALLET IS HONORED

Receives National Recognition. The title of National Honor Company has been conferred on the Princeton Regional Ballet for the 1970-71 season by the National Association for Regional Ballet, Inc., after a three year period of adjudication, Audree Estey, the society's artistic director has announced.

The National Association, made up of four regional associations throughout the country, has a total of 81 member companies. The Princeton company is one of 25 members of the Northeast Regional Ballet Association, Inc.

The quality of the regional company, now considered to be one of the strongest in the United States, is demonstrated by the fact that the Princeton Regional Ballet was chosen to perform ballets three years in a row at the Northeast Regional Festival — two works in 1967, one in 1968 and two in 1969. Having been formed as recently as 1963, the Princeton company has been particularly recognized for rising so quickly to this status.

The National Association of Regional Ballet says that the National Honor Company designation is "to help assure those who engage a regional ballet company that they will be receiving a program of responsible, worthwhile dancing."

Members of the senior company of the Princeton Regional Ballet who were selected by audition from studios throughout the region are Mary Fike, Natalie Huston, and Diana Zeydel from Princeton; Dorothy Petit Alonso and Kathy Richards, Lawrenceville; Catherine Biewener and Virginia Hepburn, Pennington; Linda Edwards, Kingston; Debi Smith, Hightstown; Robin Tantum, Princeton Junction; Sherry Kaplan and Sharin Terry, Trenton; Patricia Cupo, Edison; Jill Lerner, Metuchen; Evelyn Richmond, Red Bank, and Letitia Coburn, Newtown, Pa.

In addition there are 12 senior provisional members, 20 dancers in the junior company, 11 junior provisional members and nine junior apprentices. The Princeton Regional Ballet is maintained by the Princeton Ballet Society, which also has a School of Ballet at 262 Alexander Street.

Can You Help Toshio Takagi Find These Kids?

You don't know the smiling Japanese at the left, but maybe you will recognize his friends manning the refreshment table. If so, he'll be grateful.

Toshio Takagi, who has returned to his home in Otaru-shi on the islands of Hokkaido in Japan, wrote TOWN TOPICS last week to ask if the picture he took one day two years ago could be given to these two youngsters. He doesn't, however, know their names, and neither does TOWN TOPICS.

When the picture was taken, chances are they lived in the vicinity of University Place and Dickenson Street, where the roadside stand they were operating had been established. Maybe they still do. In any event, this is what Mr. Takagi wrote in the letter accompanying the picture:

"In the summer of 1968, I had a chance to stay at Princeton University for about two months. Every day I enjoyed a walk along Nassau Street.

"One day, on my way to Nassau, I took a picture of lovely kids who seemed a sister and a brother near the corner of University Place and Dickenson Street. I realized that they were selling soft drinks to passengers-by not until an American friend pointed it out, when I showed him the picture lately.

"Since in my country kids have no such way, or I should say a habit, to earn their money, hearing my friend's explanation, I felt very bad to them. I should have bought a glass of lemonade, if I had known at that time.

"I do not know either their family name or their address. But I would be very happy if you would kindly find them and hand them the copy of the picture (enclosed herewith) with my deep apology."

Now, can you help Mr. Takagi?

At Fondue Party. A fondue demonstration and tasting party will be held next Tuesday, when members of The Melting Pot gather at the Young Women's Christian Association. The meeting will be held at 1 p.m. and the Swiss cooking demonstration people as the crafts program announced for this date.

Mrs. Helmut Kiess will demonstrate the art of fondue making and Melting Pot members will sample the results. Vermicelle, a Swiss chestnut dessert will also be prepared.

WORKSHOP SCHEDULED

For Girl Scouts. As a follow up to last spring's "Earth Day" "Nature Day at Stony Brook," a day long outdoor workshop on ecology for the Junior Scouts of the Princeton Girl Scout Neighborhood will be held Friday.

The event, planned in cooperation with the Stony Brook Millstone Watersheds Association, will take place on the New Land Research Reserve, a farm in Hopewell acquired by the Association for environmental studies and educational programs. A "heavy rain" date has been set for Saturday.

Details for the project are being worked out by Mrs. John E. Keigler for the Girl Scouts and by Peter A. Gail, Program Director of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association. During the course of the day which will begin at 9:30 and run until 1:00, the girls, in small groups, will be led through a series of field and forest stations for activities that may include discussion of bird migration and observation of bird-handing, discussion of animal behavior and life cycles, examination and analysis of a square foot of soil or of a pail of pond water for insects, plant and animal life, identification of trees, track casting and photography.

Sale Nets Over $7,000

They also express their gratitude to the members of the committee who planned and worked at the sale and to the Hook and Ladder Company for the use of the Harrison Street fire house.

ROSES and RHUBARB

BY DON ALLEN

On The Trail . . .

How swift and sure do certain smells conjure up memories. I was crunching on one of those crisp, tangy apples that are so great right now and the whiff of apple juice brought it all back. Carefree boyhood days — "On the Trail."

Seemed like we were always hiking as kids. This day it was to be to "Bob Ashton's cabin." Now I don't know if there ever was such a place as "Bob Ashton's cabin" because we never, ever, really found it. Yet we always said "Lets go to Bob Ashton's cabin. Maybe it did exist and maybe some of the old timers can fill me in on who, what, when and where was "Bob Ashton's Cabin." But anyway, today for the umteenth time we set out for that mystical place.

It was one of those golden fall days when you wished you'd live forever. The trail took us up alongside Elmer Wert's magnificent farm, over the high ridge, and on up into the Sourland Mountains. We were great believers that getting there was half the fun, so we'd stop along the hedge rows and examine all the new holes and burrows. There were many new ones since last year and we just knew that skunking was going to be fantastic this year.

On passing over the high ridge, we could look back across the valley and spot West Trenton. The air this day was as clear as a bottle of gin. Just ahead the ground flattened out for awhile before dipping toward the Sourland Mountains. Temptation of temptations — to our right — a thousand apple trees. Ten thousand probably. Well trees enough and brimming with apples like you've never seen. Boughs loaded — dropping to the ground.

We each "borrowed" enough apples to keep the doctor away for approximately fifteen days. Thus probably we resumed our journey, discarding burrows here and there as probably just rabbit holes and not silver fox after all. It was when we came to a field of cornshocks that we aborted this umteenth foray to "Bob Ashton's Cabin", electing instead to rearrange some cornstalks into the configuration of a giant eagle's nest.

Here in this aeerie, we sprawled out on our backs, soaking in the warm sunshine while methodically reducing our inventory of edibles.

Clouds of curious shapes floated overhead, mysterious hoots and caws floated down from the mountain, and we talked, and dreamed, and planned — as only little boys can.

EXOTIC FOLIAGE PLANTS adorn our windows this week. All hand picked by us while visiting one of the preeminent East Coast growers of foliage plants last week. While we were there we studied up on their "care and feeding" so we can answer your questions about them. Priced from $2.25 to $65.

Question:

What do these systems have in common?

Trademark Search
Chemical Patent
Inverted File Retrieval
Subscription Fulfillment
Association File Management

Answer:

They all support a large file data base, allow on-line searching in a remote computing system, employ user-oriented language for query, and are operational now on our IBM System 360/50.

But, most importantly, they all were developed by PTSS (meeting scheduled completion dates and under tight budget constraints) and all are currently making PTSS customers very happy.

Have You 3 Hours Weekly to Help at Merwick?

"Our losses lately have been in the noon to-3 shift," Mrs. Leland H. Ross, chairman of the Princeton Hospital Volunteers at Merwick, reports. "A woman will move away, or her husband has a sabbatical.

"We do need ten more adult volunteers. If we had them, we could bring the 12-to-3 shift back to normal and start an additional project."

Mrs. Ross has been the keystone of the Volunteers at Merwick since May 1 of this year. In her calm, good humored way, she makes sure that 30 slots are filled, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., staffing Merwick with three Volunteers ("Sometimes four!") in the mornings, two at mid-day and at least one from 3 to 5.

The average Volunteer works one three-hour shift a week, manning the front office phones and reception desk, distributing mail and messages, wheeling guests to therapy rooms or to afternoon tea, marking Merwick's special menues, stopping for a little cheery conversation with a guest who seems lonely.

"The Volunteers who work here at Merwick need a sympathetic attitude towards the elderly and their problems," Mrs. Ross says. "We listen to their problems, their aches and pains, and follow through when we can."

Friendship Essential. Less than one-third of the Merwick guests are permanent residents these days. Most are in intensive care or rehabilitation. Two guests are totally blind; most are mentally alert, a few are senile, others are bedded with a broken leg or another of the all to frequent accidents that beset the elderly.

"They need love and friendship," Mrs. Ross says, "and we are devoted to them."

The non to 3 shift worries her, although all need reinforcing. "We have one Volunteer almost every day and we need two. If the one on duty goes away, then I'm in trouble! There are two or three women I can call on in a dire emergency — or I come myself."

There's a need for Volunteers on Saturdays and Sundays, too. At the moment there's one on duty from 2 to 4 on Saturday and another at work on Sunday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30.

There are training sessions before the new Volunteer goes to work, particularly in the Merwick phone system.

Combatting Loneliness. Callers, both men and women, will also be welcomed by Merwick, where the loneliness of the elderly is a factor to combat in getting well. "We do have a few volunteers who come in during the evening and read to the guests," Mrs. Ross says. More callers will be appreciated, particularly by the men who are guests.

Inquiries concerning volunteering at Merwick are directed to Mrs. Deborah Livingston, Director of Volunteers, Princeton Hospital, 921-7700.

seasons. It also lends to the needy hospital equipment for home use and arranges for eye examinations and glasses. The Lions also support through time, money and participation the activities of 4-H, Little League, Babe Ruth League and Boy Scouts.

The annual fruit cake and candy sale is the one-a-year fund raising activity of the club.

PLANT-PLAY DAY SET

For Thursday in Park. A Plant 'n Play day will be held Thursday at 11 at Marquand Park for all Brownies of the Princeton Girl Scout neighborhood.

In charge of the outdoor service project and cookout are Mrs. Richard A. Katen and Mrs. Richard O. Jackson. Each girl will plant tulip, crocus and daffodil bulbs donated for the occasion, after which games and songs will follow. Each troop will finish the morning by cooking an outdoor lunch.

Rain date for the plantings is Saturday from 10:30 to 1.

WORKSHOPS PLANNED

By Gestalt Center. The Princeton Gestalt Center announces two "Introduction to Encounter" weekend workshops to be held November 13-15 and December 4-6.

In the workshops, led by Andrew Gaines, participants will be able to deeply explore themselves, bringing out unused parts of themselves, and developing heightened awareness, emotional responsiveness, and spontenaity. Verbal and non-verbal techniques will be used, including opportunity for play as well as for serious work.

Andrew Gaines is an experienced encounter group leader who has studied Bio-Energetic Analysis, Gestalt Therapy, body movement, and improvisational acting. Further information may be obtained by calling 921-6958.

Neither young nor old

People often tell us we're either too young to do a good job, or too weary with middle age to enjoy our job, or too old to keep on with a job. So many things in life seem to be limited by age.

But many people who have refused to accept these limitations have accomplished marvelous things ... both at a very young age and an advanced age.

Harry S. Smith, of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, has some interesting things to say about overcoming problems of age through a clearer understanding of God's ageless man.

You and your friends, young and old, will find his free public talk full of good ideas.

Borough Rats, Township Rats.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I erroneously called the Borough Health Department to report the death of a (water) rat on my front lawn. However I soon found that the Borough has no interest in Township rats! Sir, this is an insult to which the Township, I hope will not supplicely submit. Why some of the biggest rats in the state live here!

Should consolidation of Township and Borough present a problem of what to do with two Health Departments, we might propose a division of labor ... one part devoted to rats over, and one part to rats under ... say one foot long.

Where Wilson Lived.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

A slight correction should be made in your issue of October 29, page 33. The caption under the picture of President and Mrs. Wilson setting out to vote 50 years ago, being a first step towards women's "Lib," states that their house was at 82 Library Place but the picture is very obviously of their home at 25 Cleveland Lane. This is now the home of James Hester President of New York University.

The volume "Princeton Architecture" by Greiff, Gibbons and Menzies (Figures 88 and 89) depicts the only house on Library Place ever owned by Woodrow Wilson and that was 72 not 82 Library Place and was occupied by him before he became president of the university.

This correction I am sure, will be made by many of your elderly readers of which I am one.

CHARLES R. ERDMAN, JR.

20 Boudinot Street

Editor's note: The house in the photograph is 25 Cleveland Lane. V. Lansing Collins, in "Princeton Past and Present," states that 25 Cleveland Lane was the residence of Woodrow Wilson while he was Governor of New Jersey and when he was elected President of the United States. ... Wilson's residences while a professor in the University were at 72 and 82 Library Place, and while President of the University at Prospect. His legal voting residence while President of the United States was the apartment of his brother-in-law Prof. Stockton Axson in the Hendrickson House at 10 Nassau Street, which however he had never occupied. ... On joining the faculty in 1889, Woodrow Wilson lived at 72 Library Place. For over 60 years the house was No. 3 Steadman Street (former name of Library Place) and stood south of the First Presbyterian Church parsonage (now 26 Library Place); but in 1889, it was transferred to its present location for Wilson's use and remunbered. Here he lived until 1896, when he took possession of his new home, then next door but now two doors away.

School Board Election Next.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Now that the national election is over, the Committee for Princeton Schools wishes to call attention to the School Board election scheduled for February. As chairman of this group I should like to clarify its position with respect to public education in Princeton.

The Committee for Princeton Schools was formed recently by members of the community who wish to support forward looking candidates for the Board of Education. We are anxious, as is everyone that Board members bring integrity, independence and good judgment to their difficult tasks.

If there is any special characteristic we seek in the candidates, it is simply, open mindedness toward intelligent educational innovation. It is the conviction of the Committee that dogmatic attitudes are a hindrance in the effort to improve our schools.

For these reasons we wish to maintain the spirit of inquiry which has arisen recently in the school system even though we may not, as individuals, agree with every action which has been taken.

We further believe the role of the Board should be to reflect the community's concern with educational goals, policies and financing, not to involve itself in detailed management of the school system. This latter is the responsibility of the professional staff.

Finally we have long believed, that informed citizens will support candidates who recognize that during the past few years there have been achievements in the process which is the orderly evolution of our school system.

Impropriety Charged.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I noted in your October 29 edition that Mr. Floyd wrote a "Letter to the Editor" in which he quoted one sentence from a personal letter that I wrote to him and Mr. Hartmann. My personal letter was written to them at the time I sent a letter to the editors of the local newspapers pointing out that the Fair Housing Ordinances in the Borough and Township had been proposed to the governing bodies by the Joint Commission on Civil Rights and the League of Women Voters rather than by Messrs. Floyd and Hartmann as claimed in a political ad earlier this month which was paid for by them. In view of Mr. Floyd's obvious impropriety in quoting only one sentence from my personal letter, I feel that I must ask you to print my entire letter so that interested people will have the whole story. That full letter is as follows:

"Dear Jim and Tom:

"I am enclosing a copy of letters that I sent to the editors of both of the local newspapers last Friday.

"In view of the nature of the letter and the fact that I haven't written a 'letter to the editor' for several years, I thought I should explain my motivation.

"You know, of course, that I have been and am a fairly active Republican; and therefore I won't attempt to deny some political motivation. I didn't think it was fair to the Republican members of the Township Committee for you to claim credit for something that was not originated by you and which they supported with equal enthusiasm.

"Beyond this, however, I felt that it was unfair to our fledgling Joint Commission on Civil Rights for you to claim credit for something that we (and the League of Women Voters) were directly responsible for and proposed to both of the governing bodies. If our Commission is to remain viable and perform a service in the community it must not be denied the credit which is due to it.

"Let me say that I regard both of you as dedicated and conscientious Committeemen. I only felt that, for the reasons explained above, it was necessary to correct the record."

Let me point out that I have never indicated that Messrs. Floyd and Hartmann were not interested in or did not support the Township's Fair Housing Ordinance. My only point is that they improperly claimed credit for the "happening" of this measure.

Protect Coastal Areas.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The wetlands are in danger! The League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area urges Princetonians to write to Governor Cahill asking him to sign the Wetlands Bill A505.

His delay in signing this bill, given final legislative approval on September 17, is extremely disappointing. This measure provides for state control over New Jersey's coastal wetlands. It is designed to protect the Southern Shore from the hap hazard development which has already disfigured much of the Garden State.

The Wetlands Bill would protect the coastal regions by providing for state regulation of: dredging, filling, removing or otherwise altering or polluting the coastal wetlands. Authority to map these areas and regulate their use (after public hearing) is given to the Commissioner of Environmental Protection.

This conservation measure which has bi-partisan support is clearly in the public interest. Legislators from both parties have joined Assemblywoman Margetts (R, Morris) in sponsoring the bill. Among the co-sponsors are Assemblyman Schluter, (R) and Woodson (D) from Mercer County.

The New Jersey Legislature has been commended, by national press for its action to protect the vital coastal areas that still remain. However the bill is in danger. The Governor's reluctance to sign the measure is apparently caused by pressures from private interests.

The Governor has a unique opportunity to safeguard a vital natural area for the benefit of all New Jersey residents present and future. We urge that he sign the bill. We hope that readers write to the Governor requesting his signature on this bill.

Rummage Sale A Success.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Once again the Hospital Rummage Sale was a great success. And once again I must find words to say "thank you" to everyone who helped make it so.

Our thanks to the fire company for the use of the fire house, to the Princeton merchants who contributed so generously, to Princetonians who gave so much and bought so much. Most important, my personal thanks to the volunteers on the Hospital Aid Committee and their friends for their hours of time, their enthusiasm and their back breaking labor.

ADR PICTURE MIXED

3-Month Profit, 9-Month Loss. Operations in the black for the third quarter were reported this week by Applied Data Research, but the computer software and service company showed a net loss for the first nine months of 1970.

Earnings per share for the quarter were five cents, with a special credit increasing the figure to 13 cents, compared to eight cents during the third quarter in 1969. However, a net loss for the year to date of $230,500 has been incurred, in contrast to net earnings per share of 16 cents for the similar nine month period a year ago.

Operating revenues for both periods were higher, the firm reported. For the September quarter, they were $1,852,000 over $1,610,000, while for nine months this year they are $5,128,000 compared to $4,656,000. However, the nine-month loss before taxes amounts to $605,000. The special credit amounting to eight cents a share for the third quarter resulted from partial redemption of convertible debentures.

EARNINGS DOWN AT PAR

Nine-Month Drop Is 32%. An increase of 4.5% in net sales, a 6% increase in gross profits but a 32% dip in net income was reported this week by Princeton Applied Research.

Net sales to September 30 this year amounted to $3,943,000. Income per share for nine months amounts to 25 cents, compared to 37 cents a year ago. For the third quarter, the respective figures are eight and ten cents.

Stockholders were told that "The decline in net income for the nine month period reflects the lower than anticipated order rate in the first half of 1970 that was commented upon in the July 31, 1970 letter to stockholders. The decline in net income for the three month period results almost entirely from anticipated start up losses incurred by our new subsidiary, SSH Instruments Company, whose operations are being consolated in this report for the first time. The consolidation of SSRI had a net negative effect on the reported earnings for the quarter of almost $0.06 per share.

"A number of new products are scheduled for introduction early in 1971. The continuation of the new product development effort at essentially full strength and our diversification into new product areas should broaden our markets and maintain our growth potential."

SELECTION BY COMPUTER

For College-Bound Students. Princeton Educational Consultants, Inc. this week announced a new computer-assisted college selection service for high school seniors and juniors.

PEC has detailed information on all accredited four year institutions in its data bank. Individual student preferences and academic qualifications are matched against this and then reviewed by PEC personnel.

The end product is an individually-prepared 15 page report which shows specific information on recommended colleges and universities, plus instructions on how the report should be interpreted. Princeton Educational Consultants' reports are marketed solely by the First National City Bank in New York, and its correspondent banks throughout the U.S.

Charles E. Lambert, President of PEC, lives at 149 Terhune Road. Before forming the Company he was a management consultant for the Federal Government and the State of New Jersey. In earlier years, he had been an instructor at Johns Hopkins University and the University of Baltimore.

Richard Pearson, president of the College Entrance Examination Board from 1961 to 1969, is an advisor to PEC. Mr. Pearson is now a private consultant in the field of education.

ing. A communications center in Denver, Colo., designed by the architectural firm of Fulmer and Bowers, 311 Nassau St. has received three design awards. The building houses television and radio stations KLZ of Denver, owned by Time Life Broadcast, Inc.

The Downtown Denver Improvement Association Award cited the building as "contributing in a special way to the attractiveness of Downtown Denver, and providing a significant gateway to that area of the city. The Denver Association Award selected the structure as having the best identification of any Denver building in 1969, both exterior and interior (the KLZ identity was coordinated with the architecture.)

The building also received the American Concrete Institute Award of Excellence for the Most Outstanding Concrete Structure of 1969 in the Denver area. The four story, octagonal ly shaped building houses complete TV and radio broadcast facilities with studios, control centers, libraries, production areas and administrative services. TV studios and control centers are in a connected, but separate building. The Denver building is the ninth major TV broadcast facility designed by the Fulmer Bowers firm.

Across the continent, YMCAs will be seeking $2,500,000 for World Service, Mr. Cooke said. This is an increase of $250,000 over the total raised in 1969.

The bulk of the increase will help supply more critically needed leadership in key areas of the world. It will help, too, in constructing new YMCA buildings, particularly in areas where the Y has only recently begun to work and where rental facilities are still being used.

ALLIANCE FORMS To Abolish Abortion Laws

October 3, at the Status of Women Conference at Princeton Inn College, 8 groups interested in the abolition of all New Jersey abortion and contraceptive laws joined in the establishment of the Abortion Alliance.

Some of the original participating groups are Mothers & Others to Repeal Abortion Laws, Middlesex County NOW, N.J. Committee for Abortion Repeal, Central Jersey Chapter of NOW, N.J. Women's Liberation Abortion Project, Central Jersey ZPG, Monmouth County NOW, and the Abortion Reform Committee at Eagleton Institute.

This new Alliance plans a concentrated effort in January, when the legislators return to Trenton, to strike all reference to abortion and contraception from the state law books. The Alliance feels that reproduction should be by complete freedom of choice for individuals without state interference.

The next statewide meeting is Saturday in New Brunswick at the Douglass Campus. At this meeting, specific tactics will be discussed for repealing N.J.'s abortion and contraceptive laws which infringe upon individual privacy and religious beliefs.

Further information regarding membership or any of the activities of the Alliance can be obtained by calling 609-452-2413 or writing P.O. Box No. 65, Skillman, N.J. 08558.

How to Protect Yourself from Hunters

Hunting is the preserve of the state. This means towns can't pass their own hunting ordinances, so Township Mayor John D. Wallace, Administrator Joseph R. Nini and Police Lt. Richard Steiner offered some information and suggestions this week for home-owners worried about gunfire:

- Post your land. Boy ordinary signs at any store, sign them with your name and post them so that each sign is visible from the sign next to it. Post them all around your property.
- The law prohibits gunfire within 300 feet (100 yards) of any house or roadway. (A law, now languishing in the Legislature, would increase the distance to 450 feet.)
- Township police add extra men to patrol the monicipality during hunting season. Police post those red signs that say areas are patrolled. The Township itself posts its Open Space lands — Autumn Hill Reservation, Woodhill Reservation, and so on.
- Police will respond to a telephone call or complaint from a property-owner. Usually, police say, a hunter will apologize to a householder and leave the property. If he doesn't, the householder can sign a complaint.
- Bow-and-arrow season is on now. Small-game starts November 7 and continues until December 5. Then deer season starts, on December 7 and continues until December 14. Deer season brings the most complaints, by the way. Small game is back on the calendar from December 14 to January 2.
- Lt. Steiner recalls only one accident in 19 years: a hunter lost an eye from the smaller shot used for small-game. There have, however, been a lot of broken windows.

GIRL SCOUTS KEEP PACE With Program on New Priorities. Under the direction of the Mercer Girl Scout Council, Girl Scout leaders throughout Mercer County are putting into operation a new program designed to keep pace with today's girls.

The program will concentrate on six areas of concern: pot, pollution, population, peace, prejudice and poverty. Troops will be asked to choose one of these subjects which will be studied, evaluated and suggestions made as to how Girl Scouts, in their capacity, might best effect change throughout the local area concerning these problems.

All interested agencies and persons who work directly in these areas of concern or would like to, are invited to participate in the program.

ALL ABOUT BEETHOVEN Exhibit Opens in Firestone. The only sketchbook of Beethoven's in this country, used by the German composer in 1815, is among the items exhibited at Princeton University's Firestone Library in a display marking the 200th anniversary of the musician's birth.

Aranged by Dr Lewis Lockwood, Professor of Music and Chairman of the Music Department at Princeton, the exhibit features first editions of works by Beethoven, published during his lifetime or shortly thereafter, as well as several autograph musical manuscripts in the composer's hand writing.

There are also facsimiles of manuscripts, letters, other early manuscripts, a bronze life mask of the composer, a plybill, pictures, a kitchen account sheet and even a printed cord of invitation to Beethoven's funeral.

The display, housed in the Firestone Library's main exhibition gallery, may be viewed from 9 to 5, Monday through Saturday and from 2 to 5 Sondays. The exhibit will continue through mid January, according to Earle E. Coleman, Assistant University Librarian for Rare Books and Special Collection.

From Scheide Collection Exhibit material is drawn from the University's own extensive music library, from the collection of William H Scheide of Princeton and from items loaned by the Pierpont Morgan Library.

The 1815 sketchbook, part of the Scheide collection, is open to pages containing sketches for Beethoven's Opus 101, Piano Sonata in A Major. Sketches in Beethoven's hand for the Hammer-Klavier Sonata, Opus 106, also are on display.

First editions exhibited have been selected to represent piano sonatas, chamber music, symphonies, the opera and other vocal works, according to Dr. Lockwood. Among them is the score for Leonore Overture No. 3, composed in 1806, and considered the most famous of the three overtures composed for the opera Leonore.

MARIJUANA AND THE LAW: Three young people, part of the Nassau Street scene, discuss New Jersey's new marijuana law — reported to be the most liberal in the nation. They are Rich Emmons, Sarah Stitham (center) and Lynne Hannas. When the law takes effect in January, it provides that first-time marijuana offenders be charged as disorderly persons and given a suspended sentence. For the opinions of Rich, Sarah and Lynne, see below. (Staff Photo)

Question Of The Week

Question: Under a just passed New Jersey marijuana law — the most liberal in the nation — first time offenders will be charged as disorderly persons and given a suspended sentence. What is your reaction?

Where asked: Around town.

Ed Keahey, Hopewell, tree surgeon for Hartley: I think it's good but at the same time they ought to get a little tougher on the guys who peddle the rougher stuff like LSD. Marijuana is relatively minor and shouldn't be treated the same as harder drugs. LSD can really sock it to you. A pusher who gives a teenager LSD should be shot.

Tom Pitman, Trenton, tree surgeon for Hartley: It's dynamite. I think it's the first sensible move they've made. It's a good law; you're not going to solve the problem by putting people in jail.

Rich Emmons, 150 Witherspoon Street, student: It's a step in the right direction but I suggest eliminating the criminal record completely. That's the reason for charging you as a disorderly person — so you'll have a record. I think a first time offender should be released without a record.

Lynne Hannas, Cranbury, dental assistant: It's much better than in the past but I don't think they should charge you even as a disorderly person. I think they should just give you a warning. Look how many people smoke marijuana . . . it's not just the kids. It's the parents, doctors . . . everyone. People you'd never suspect! I think a person should be allowed to do anything he wants in the privacy of his own home.

Sarah Stitham, Woodstock, actress: I think it's good because I have a two-year old son, and if I were sent to jail the first time, he would be taken from me and sent to a shelter. If it happens the first time. I'll be a lot more careful the second time for his benefit. Now you won't be worried so much about the first time because you know you won't be sent to jail.

Ron Edgerly, Canal Road, teacher: It's nice to see the system changing a little bit to make it more equitable but I feel they are just sort of treating the symptoms and not getting at the root causes. It's a personal thing, not something that belongs in the public domain. Every person should have the right to pick and choose for himself. Sure, it's nice to know you won't be put in jail the first time but it is still only a stop-gap measure. They're using it more as a political gesture, coming out like this just before elections. They're not so much concerned for the kids as they are their own political image.

William Kight, 4 Nassau Street, street minister: My reaction is that the law is very rational. It's taking something out of a criminal context, where there is a record and so on, an activity not essentially criminal. It only deals with possession and use of small quantities by an individual. Society is protected from people that sell it and the user is not unduly punished. But he is punished. He can be fined and still sent to jail. It also recognizes past inequalities. Under the old law, simple possession of marijuana was a high misdemeanor and a first-time offender could get as high as seven years, while possession of LSD and speed was a disorderly person charge. It made it a little more logical. It's not the best piece of legislation but better than we had before.

Rene Saputo, 96 Einstein Drive, PHS student: I approve of this but if you are not going to jail, what's the sense of a record? I think marijuana should be legalized. If they haven't come up with proof of any physical or mental disorder to your system, I don't see why it's against the law.

JoAnne Hooper, 271 Varsity Avenue, Penns Neck, PHS student: It's getting better. I think there should be a small fine and that's it. No record. Nothing else. Maybe pretty soon they will come up with another law even better — making marijuana legal.

Arthur Jackson, Borough patrolman: Why do anything at all? A suspended sentence means nothing today. A few years ago a disorderly person charge and a suspended sentence meant something . . . probation . . . today, you're just wasting your time. Courts are so liberal today that a person can go out and do anything short of murder and get away with it — and some even get away with that.

FAMILY SUPPER SET

At St. Andrew's. "The Religious and Political Significance of Brazil Until 1970" will be discussed by the Rev. Paul E. Pierson, professor of church history and mission, Recife, Brazil, at this Sunday's family night supper at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Professor Pierson, now associated with Princeton Seminary, has spent 14 years in Brazil as a teacher and missionary. He will review the unrest in the church and political turmoil of the country.

The supper, scheduled for 5:30 p.m., is the first of the fall season. Families are asked to bring three portions of a casserole, salad or dessert for each member attending. Rolls, beverages and place settings are supplied. Reservations may be made by calling the church office, 924-2174.

TO HOST AFRICANS

At Cranbury Church. "African Enterprise," an evangelistic organization based in South Africa, will be the focus of a pot-luck supper at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday, November 12, at First Presbyterian Church of Cranbury.

The African group has pioneered urban and university evangelism in Nairobi, Kenya and Johannesburg. Students from Princeton Seminary have organized the meeting.

Interested persons are invited to contribute a dish for the supper, which will open the evening's activities. Further information may be obtained from Mark Starr, 924-8831, or the Rev. Don Maddox, 395-0897 or 655-0097.

Progress will be discussed by task groups concerned with legislative and judicial reform, a half-way house, emergency needs, institutional liaison and 24-hour emergency hot line, or counseling service. Additional volunteers are needed by the legislative, institutional liaison and hot line task forces.

The units were organized early in August, following a discussion by youth minister William N. Kight of the needs of Princeton youth given at a summer union service of the Princeton Presbyterian churches.

Youngsters will find penny candy at the "For 1 cent Plain" booth, and other booths feature handcrafts and floral arrangements. For the hungry, there will be a cafe and a pizza parlor. OUR MOST VALUABLE REAL ESTATE IS OUR EARTH

Wetlands are not wastelands! Did you know that tidal marshes are essential to the life cycle of 2/3 of our marine food, sport and shellfish; fill valuable scientific functions; support many bird species, provide scenic beauty and recreation, and are being systematically destroyed by special (short-range financial) interests?

Help our irreplaceable marshes survive by writing Governor Cahill urging him to SIGN THE WETLANDS BILL NOW.

TURN YOUR BACK ON TIME and enter into an era of gracious living when you buy this charming country estate. Partly pre-Revolutionary, partly Victorian in age, the house has been modernized in all the essentials, while still retaining the charm and feeling of a bygone time. Many fireplaces, wide mellow floor boards, beamed ceilings, a gracious front staircase — and a large and lovely home of five bedrooms and four and a half baths. Set on almost thirteen prime acres adjoining the exclusive Bedens Brook Club — with a branch of the brook running through the property. A plus is the three bedrooms, two bath apartment over the separate three car garage — great for guests and in-laws, servants, or as now, fur ample rental income.

This is a show place, a property to love and cherish for the rest of your life.

Skating — sailing — canoeing — anyone? Over a hundred and seventy feet of lake frontage, with room for your own private dock. That's for the sportsman. For the home lover, here is a fine custom built brick Georgian colonial, with gracious entry hall and curving staircase. The rooms throughout the house are spacious — dining room sized for your buffet and seating for ten or twelve. Ceilings high enough for your pet antiques and grandfather clock. Four bedrooms, three fireplaces, three full and two half baths. A pretty house, and a choice listing.

PERFECTIONIST!

Can't find our dream house and want to build? Here is your lot! Wooded acre and a third near Littlebrook School is a real find in this time of Princeton land shortage. Walk over it with us! Priced at $28,500

THE REAL THING! AN ORIGINAL EARLY AMERICAN TRACT OF 20 ACRES THAT HAS BEEN IN THE SAME FAMILY SINCE 1804. The house is a weathered relic of Colonial days without running water, electric or indoor conveniences. Restoration of this authentic, early settlers home is still possible although a costly challenge. The land is one of the nicest pieces of ground in New Jersey. It is on a hill 10 miles northwest of Princeton. Many rods of dry stone walls still mark the pre-Revolutionary cleared fields. This is a tract no broker has offered on the market before. A unique opportunity to obtain 20 acres of the best land there is. $85,000 and worth every cent of it. JOHN O. GUINNESS, Real Estate Broker, 2 West Broad Street, Hopewell, N.J. 609 466-1224.

Big Sister Matches Big and Little Brothers

Lively, warm-hearted Barbara Steinberg has the curious joh of matching Big Brothers to Little Brothers.

"It's exciting that the kids seem to be so anxious to have this kind of relationship in their lives," she says in her cheery office in the Dorothea House, Avalon Place and John Street. "Big Brothers has a preventative approach — reaching a boy before he turns off through bad experiences."

Mrs. Steinberg is a counselor-social worker at Family Service, and is working under contract to Big Brothers of Greater Princeton. Big Brothers, in its frugal way, has no office or executive director, choosing to put its funds into sensitive areas of matching man and boy.

The novel arrangement was worked out by Wesley W. Walton and Elwood Kauffman, BBGP president and vice-president respectively, with Seymour Plawsky, Family Service executive.

A Gap to Be Filled. "The majority of the boys on our waiting list have experienced loss in relationship with their father often through divorce or death. He's a youngster between the ages of 8 and 12 who has no meaningful involvement with a male adult and feels a sense of deprivation."

Big Brothers and Little Brothers are screened, then watched by interests and personalities, Mrs. Steinberg says. A group of those interested in football went off to the Penn-Princeton game. Some 30 tickets were made available by the University of Pennsylvania.

"The Big Brother is free to plan anything within reason that he finds is mutually satisfactory to himself and the boy," she adds. "They can be involved for an afternoon of working on a model, or fishing, or hikes—a whole range of things. Sometimes an activity is helpful at the beginning to ease a new relationship.

"This friendship often provides a boy with his first glimpse of the kind of man he wants to become. He sees how it is to have purpose in life, to be resolute in working toward his goal, to act responsibly, and, by respecting himself, to respect others.

"The age of the Big Brothers is secondary. Each age has something to offer. We need variety."

The man who becomes in

volved with a Little Brother needs to stay with it for about two years. It takes time for a relationship to get going, Mrs. Steinberg says. "The greatest benefit comes the first months."

Orientation Provided. There's an orientation-training for Big Brothers at Family Service, those who are "matched" meeting with those who are not. The training is informal, "but we expect them to use themselves in an effective way to handle problems that come up."

The Big Brother turns to Mrs. Steinberg for advice when he needs it. He keeps in touch with the boy when he's away, and when he's no longer needed, the last months are devoted to a gentle release of the relationship.

Interested potential Big Brothers, young or older, unmarried or married with children of their own, may call 921 3122. Their applications will be welcomed.

To Mrs. Steinberg, author of "Working Class Youth in Urban Areas," published in 1966 by Holt Rinehart, "The aspect of Big Brothers in Princeton that intrigues me is that there's really a need that might not be associated with a community like this!"

"Ceremonies in Dark Old Men" Memorable Debut for Workshop

The Hansberry Arts Workshop of the Princeton Youth Center has given Princeton a community-centered production of Lonne Elder III's "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men". Every person who witnessed the evening has a thing to remember that is part of only the finest human art, an affirmation of the long, transcendent, dark, deep, and lonely song that is the only real life before death.

It, a blues song a joy song, a remembering song, hitter turn by turn, saying "I will beat his game." Here the game is a slight attempt at trying to make a profit out of Harlem by driving the man out of the district.

Part of the play asks "Who is a hero in Harlem?" What kind of cool is it that keeps man alive? The angry cool of Adele the daughter, who works downtown and saves money? The confused cool of Theo, who tries a game to beat the man's, but who above all does not know who or where he is? Or the young, flip, beautiful, caring cool of Bobby, who knows who and where he will end, and who flaunts his desperation by stealing?

Their father, Russell Parker, is something else. Invisible and uptown, he is a former vaudevillian, former husband, former dreamer, now a liar, grandiose, beaten, disconnected from the world. The game for Parker in the ceremony of passage from being alive to being dead, an inevitable passage that leads always to the edges of death.

We expect survival of anyone able to laugh or strike out, and we are caught short when he dies, or part of him dies. This complexity was evident in the dominant, ultimate dignity of William Cook, whose portrayal of Parker was tenacious and wrenching, a character to watch, and a being to love.

Mr Cook made Parker's losses so difficult for us and so bitter to our taste that we must wish to see and re see those controlled and valuable moments at which Parker's game playing became the tenuous life death matter of which every man's son is made. Parker's life is a sad and deadly message, a letter we do not wish to open; Mr Conk wrote it to us in a clear and sensitive hand.

Terry Steagle, as Theo, made the older son a character of change and growth, also complex, reacting smoothly and comfortably with each other character. Lenora Chambers, the Adele who knows that one either climbs up out of Harlem or is buried by it, showed the inhuman and inflexible cool of a girl who has steeled herself to every kind of devitalization process humans can devise.

Howard Sweeney, Jr., the youngest and most tragic of the Parkers, made Bobby into an avatar, an example of the desperation with which we must all ultimately deal. He and Perry Owens, Blue Haven, shared the qualities of street wisdom, the dangerous, savvy intelligence of the risk takers. The two — especially Mr Sweeney were sound, quick, and moving.

Finally it was a pleasure to see John Counts and Lynnette Campbell as two very different friends of Parker. Their playing depended upon strong sensitivities to Parker himself. I think they complemented Mr. Cook successfully by knowing both their own characters and his.

Donald Evans directed this play with a sensitivity to more than stagecraft. He knows that risks must be taken by theater and those who work in it, if what appears on stage is to transcend illusion and touch the realities we live in.

The result of these risks — of work and struggle and human understanding — was clear: a set of people and circumstances whose meaning we cannot avoid and whose lives we dare not deny. The honesty involved in these risks is the effect of every ceremony: an affirmation of real life and real death. It was achieved here, and achieved well.

David Carr

"THREE" IN NEW CINEMA At McCarter. The life style of American youth in the mid 1950's will be examined nostalgically in the film "Three" scheduled for a single showing at McCarter next Wednesday at 8. Tickets at the door.

It's in McCarter's New Cinema series. Written and directed by James Salter, who did "Downhill Race," "Three" tells about a trio of college graduates, class of 1958, who have had a final summer fling in Europe before settling into the great big world. One critic observed that the experiences of the "Three" illustrate a quality of youth, place and idealism that would find expression in a totally different context today."

The three are played by Charlotte Rampling, Sam Waterston and Robie Porter.

'Raisin in the Sun' at McCarter

(Ted Woods, reviewing "Raisin in the Sun," is a graduate student in Princeton University's Department of Architecture. A specialist in stage design, he executed the new stage in the auditorium of the Princeton Youth Center.)

Although we laughed too much and at times in all the wrong places, "Raisin in the Sun" is a good choice for Mc Carter repertory because the "what its-like-being black" lesson is still relevant; the causes are still here; nothing has changed. This is the universal reality of the play, for especially as Friday's performance fought on, down in Trenton lots of us Raisins in The Sun were exploding.

But the show was directorially taken for granted. Eric Krebs, the director (of from-the-stage-communication) begins, "I have directed "A Raisin in the Sun' from the point of view that the events of it are indeed an intense exploration into the lives of the Younger family, (BUT) it is on a stage, it is an entertainment."

Should one say (BUT) it is on a stage or, (AND) it is on a stage? Entertaining as it may be, this play has a lot to say: much of it was lost in Mr. Krebs' production.

Lorraine Hansberry's play can communicate something which we can readily understand in its classic simplicity an incredible from the inside expression of the complexities of black human existence.

Seemingly this simplicity was assumed, not deeply understood, and not believed. And so: additions (a slide show!) and subtractions were made; the 'blasted Albatross' was shot and something came down between (Krebs and Hansberry) and (the cast and the audience.) As a result the show was as shallow as Stony Brook in comparison to "ole man river."

A potentially excellent cast is caught between "dancing to the music" of the direction and "moving with the spirit" of Hansberry. Delores Martin as Grandma Lena Younger, is at times positively possessed: her skill as an actress swells up and is clear and moving. At times, she is the comedian, falling short of Lena's seriousness.

Fred Morsell as Walter Lee, often falls short of all the things his character has to say. This actor is sensitive and talented he will probably change, he will not throw it away; he believes.

When the audience laughs at Walter Lee instead of with him, the actor cannot help feel just as this character be portrays, "I can open car doors all day," and too, "I can tap dance too, yall."

Silvia Soares turns in the most consistently believable performance as Ruth. Her graceful and serious intent often is the key which opens the door and allows the real Hansberry to enter. Likewise for the electrified naturalness and ability of Tazewell Thompson as Asagai, a Nigerian born of another culture but most certainly the symbolic spirit of the true identity of seemingly dissipated black manhood. I was relieved to hear applause with his last exit, instead of laughter.

Jan Davis, from the moment she speaks, makes it evident that she feels the role and has the talent and ability to make us believe and understand her character, Beneatha.

The intense realities of black existence are not so easy to express as it is possible to assume. Each time the audience laughs at the cast, you see, instead of with the cast and the cast's culture. Director Krebs laughs at himself, the cast laughs at itself and the audience, too, laughs at itself. What kind of lesson is this, while in Trenton Raisins In The Sun are blowing Up?

"What Hansberry wants for the black spirit is not to be laughed at, the lesson of Vaudeville, but to be laughed with in true understanding and love and sharing, the lesson of real drama. Even though the production fails to communicate to the utmost the critical implications of having to understand us blacks, it is at times stirring, moving and powerfully acted, in spirit.

But please, when you see and hear all the "yalls," and "aint its," and "bigtoothed grins," and everything but the "watermelons," try to see beyond the encouragement to shallow laughter, and perhaps we might all leave the theatre laughing with each other.

IT'S NEW To Us

DOUBLE-KNIT SUITS And Corduroy Bush Jackets. Jack's Custom Shops is a new addition to the Montgomery Shopping Center on Route 206. It opened about a month ago and has a growing appeal "to the people who don't like that Nassau congestion," according to Jeff Cox, the manager. It's an attractive shop, filled with about everything a man could need.

"We are youthful enough that we can deal with the students," Mr. Cox goes on in his pleasant way, "and we have a conservative suit range that most men would find pleasing. And both straight-leg and flair pants. The best thing is for people to come into the shopping center and discover us.

We noticed London Fog outerwear, Lee slacks — which have certainly come a long way from blue jeans — and the very attractive shirts that Arrow is putting out these days. There are lengths of cloth and fabric books to browse through if you're in need of a custom-tailored suit, jacket or slacks.

Jack's Custom Shops handles the Europe Craft imports, and among them we found jackets in cotton, suede shaped slightly at the waist and with a deep vent at the center back. "These wear very well," Jeff Cox told us. There are brass accents on the pockets and a pile lining ($45).

A tan corduroy in the bush jacket tradition has button holes faced with suede leather, a wide belt and four patch pockets. Also from Europe Craft — made in Belgium, in fact — it is nicely tailored and again has that deep, long center vent in the back ($39.95). Another, in leather, belted and stitched, is $100. All are single breasted.

Arrow is no longer a white shirt company, and you'll see prints, stripes, solids and two-button cuffs in their current offerings. The fabrics are Perma Press. The shop has — also from Arrow — crepe body shirts with deep collars. Solid colors—gold, maroon, brown and white among them. The same shirt comes in knit fabrics, too, in marvelous shades.

And in velour, shirts in solid colors or dynamic horizontal stripes. They are soft and flexible, almost as warm as a sweater. Arrow shirts range from $7.50 to $13.95.

The traveling man's delight are the double-knit suits and slacks, which Jack's Custom Shops has in a representative supply. The navy suit has a two-button front on a blazer-type jacket; there's a slight flair to the trousers. ($125). Also in brown and gray.

The double-knit fabric is strong, yet it has a lot of give to it without bagging at knees and elbows. "It's like wearing almost nothing at all," Mr. Cox will tell you. "Light in weight, and it gives when you move. You can throw them into a suitcase and they keep their shape. You don't have to bother with suit hags. It's no wonder they sell well."

Jack's Custom Shops has the Coventry, Asher, Stars Stripes, and Sans-a-Belt dress pants. The latter has an elasticized waistband — and men either love them or hate them. The Ashers are flairs. Dress pants average $30.

Among the slacks by Lee, wide wale corduroy in good colors, stripes, too — all in the dungaree cut. (From $7 to $13). Lee also has a brushed corduroy slack with the velour look, taking the old blue jeans about as far as they can go.

To give you an idea of sizes, Jack's Custom Shops suits and sport coats range from 36 to 50 in size; pants from 29" waist to 44", shirts from 14½" neck to 20" (And there aren't many calls for the 20".)

You'll also find a full line of the Canterbery belts and wallets in beautiful leathers. Interwoven socks, cuff links, tie clips — and every print and stripe imaginable in neckties.

"TO LENGTHEN THY LIFE" "Lessen Thy Meals." Ben Franklin has his piece of the action at the Country Mouse at 164 Nassau. Among the Peter Pauper books, those thoughtfully published gift books, is "Ben Franklin's Wit & Wisdom," a pithy collection of writings by the colonial sage. ($1.25)

Ben would have felt quite at home among the candles at the Country Mouse. He might even have felt a little overwhelmed, because the candle collection is enormous, varied, beautiful and fragrant. The colors are shaded to match your most difficult color scheme, and the scents are fascinating.

You will linger over such fragrances as holly berry, lilac, magnolia, apple blossom and lemon verbena. You'll find such oddments as lighting tapers, long, skinny sticks of wax and wick in bright colors.

Nearby is C. Mouse's hand-made, soft-as-velvet soap. It makes your hands feel as though a lotion has been rubbed over them. C. Mouse has scented the soaps with such delightful fragrances as Jessamine, sandalwood, bayberry, pine, strawberry — among others. (35c or 3/$1)

We got to wandering about the Carolina brand sachets and sprays with fragrances of mint julip, Merced rum and champagne, as well as flower and berry scents. Exactly where to spray the buttered rum is a delicate business, when you think of it.

Easing into Country Mouse's back room, we felt immediately at home with the huge canvas drawstring bags — big enough for laundry, or summer shoes, or odd collections. Of course C. Mouse is drawn on each bag — skating nonchalantly in a Princeton sweater, or off to his travels with a sturdy carpet bag in hand. The drawings are in black by C. Mouse himself, Sam McDowell.

In fact, Country Mouse is not a type to keep himself in the shade of a toadstool. You'll see his very charming self on all kinds of greeting cards, reminding cards, miss-you cards. A batch of them would hold your needs in control for a year.

There are a great many greeting cards at Country Mouse, and it is wise to browse there first. Also enchanting gift wrap papers from Denmark that are so delightful that you want to save the wrapper as well as the gift. Some come with matching cards (50c).

Among his pewter, C. Mouse has an interesting hinged dish about big enough for the palm of your hand. There are ceramic pitchers with a grooved area for your fingers when pouring — and marked with ti media presentation of black drama, music and dance.

Performances will be given this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre on campus. Reservations may be made by calling 452-8181.

Harambee's founder, Emmett Pritchard, a senior at the Woodrow Wilson School, says "the symbolic sense of the title is that black people are broken wings learning how to fly again through the development of a revolutionary ideology."

Three one-act plays by playwrights well known in black theatre will be included. They are "A Son, Come Home," by Ed Bullins, "Prayer Meeting," by Ben Caldwell" and Sister Sonji by Sonya Sanchez.

Harambee House Players consist of about 30 black students who attend the University Westminster Choir College and Princeton High School. The group is organized into six workshops, drama, vocal dance, music, writing and technical.

Last year Harambee House Players experienced a highly successful first season. Performances of "Mixed Bag," a potpourri of poems, songs and dance, were presented on the University campus, at the First Baptist Church, Trinity Church, Westminster Choir College, and at black arts festivals at Douglass College and Wellesley College. The group also gave performances to benefit the Princeton Youth Center and the Carver YMCA in Trenton.

A non profit organization, the Players returned their season's earnings to the local black community, awarding summer grants of $225 each to the Black Cultural Center of Trenton and the Community House of Princeton.

In conjunction with the performances this weekend, the Players are sponsoring a Black Arts Conference Saturday, to which black students from colleges and universities all over the east coast have been invited.

ANOUILH PLAY SET

By Community Players. "Antigone", directed by Brendan Burke, is the Princeton Community Players' opener for the 1970-71 season. This Anouilh version of the Greek legend premiered in German-occupied Paris, where, because of its delicately balanced argument, it won the enthusiastic support of both the Germans and the Resistance forces; both sides saw the play as an endorsement of their beliefs.

Mr. Burke is well known to Princeton audiences, both as actor and director with McCarter Theatre, has also designed the sets and costumes.

Headlining the cast are Irene Rosenberg as Antigone, and Ed Yanowitz as Creon. The part of Chorus, the commentator on the action, is played by Ed Spiegel.

Supporting roles are played by Jim Marvel, Barbara Herzberg, Sydelle Ruderman, Philip Paul, David Turner, Bob Kennedy, Pat Echeverria and Peter Schwartz.

"Antigone" opens at the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road, next Friday, November 13, and plays also on November 14, 20, closing Saturday, November 21. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. June Cawley, 921-2986 between 5 and 9 p.m.

"SHOW-OFF"

Third in Line. George Kelly's comedy "The Show-Off" is waiting in the wings to be McCarter's third production in the 1970-71 repertory season.

It will open Friday, November 13, at 8:30 and will play again that weekend on Saturday at the same hour before entering the repertory cycle.

Robert Blackburn, McCarter's actor-director is in charge. He is directing a cast headed by Tom Brennan as the swaggering and bombastic Aubrey Piper, "the show-off." Featured with Mr. Brennan will be Dorothy Chace, the mother in "All My Sons," who will play his disapproving mother-in-law. Her husband once again, as in "All My Sons," will be Seymour Penzner. Aubrey's adoring wife will be Beth Dixon, who played Lydia Lubey in "All My Sons."

Besides directing, Mr. Blackburn will act, taking on the role of Frank Hyland, Madge Grant will play his wife Clara. Arthur Lithgow, McCarter's executive director will act this time around. He'll be Mr. Rogers.

Fred Morsell, who was Walter Lee Younger in "A Raisin in the Sun" and Dr. Bayliss in "All My Sons," will be Mr. Gill in "The Show off." Richard Pilcher, astrologer, the Frank Lubey of "All My Sons," will be the inventive young Joe in the Kelly comedy.

PLAYHOUSE

The Strawberry Statement (now playing) is based upon James Kunen's novel about the 1968 rebellion at Columbia University.

Bruce Davison as Simon, age 20, gives insights into the student caught in the middle of something he neither wants nor cares about. Kim Darby is the coed he meets when the students take over the administration building and who is assigned to the food patrol with him. Murray MacLeod is George-the jock who turns left-ist.

There are moments of acerbic humor, and nearly a dozen songs in the background. You wonder a little, however, at the fast conversion of a don't-care student.

Garden, Prince, Brunswick

Joe (now playing) is a commentary on America today, seen through the eyes of two widely-contrasting men who share a distrust of youth.

The lead role of Joe is uncannily brought to life by Peter Boyle as a $150-a-week factory worker, somehow threatened by the liberals and hippies alike. He believes that "42 per cent of all liberals are queers." The lives of Joe and his wife, brilliant K. Callen, become involved with those of polished $60,000-a-year ad executive Dennis Patrick and his chic wife, Audrey Caire.

Some sequences are brutal—the murder of a hippie dope-pusher, the hippie orgy, complete with nudity and pot; and Joe's panic-stricken shooting of the hippies he believes have robbed him. But never to be forgotten is Boyle's performance as the lower middle class "hard hat." The color photography of New York from Bellevue Hospital to Times Square bowling alleys, is of high quality.

Marlboro Has Off Night: Musicians Disappoint

The Department of Music of Princeton University Chamber Music Concerts Series opened last Wednesday evening at 10 McCosh Hall with the first of three "Music From Marlboro" programs scheduled for the 1970-71 season.

The artists for this event were Shmuel Ashkenasi and Peter Menard, violins, Phil upp Naegele and Scott Nickrenz, violas, Richard Sher, violoncello, Luis Batlle, piano and Leslie Guinn, baritone. The first four musicians make up the String Quartet in residence at Northern Illinois University.

The usual practice of the Marlboro concerts is to offer chamber music both familiar and rarely heard, and Wednesday night's offering to Princeton music lovers featured two rarities, the "Four Poems for Voice, Viola and Piano" on texts by Baudelaire and Verlaine by Charles Martin Loeffler (1861-1935) and the String Quintet No. 2 in B♭ Major, Opus 87, by Mendelssohn. The Piano Quartet in G♭ Major, K. 493 by Mozart served as the opening selection.

Piano Work "Stiff." For the first time in many years, this reviewer found the Marlboro ensemble wanting in several respects. In the Mozart, Mr. Batlle's approach to the piano part was a bit stiff and almost too deliberate. His tone was mellow, in the usual fine Serkin Marlboro tradition, but throughout the evening his playing was louder than it needed to be, especially in the Mozart.

A missed note here or there can happen to anybody but one had the feeling that the Mozart lacked sufficient rehearsal preparation. There were places where intonation was not up to standard in the first violin and cello. Entrances were slightly uncertain in more than a few spots. The second movement seemed to go unusually slow and again here, Mr. Batlle added to this impression by emphasizing each note of the line perhaps too much.

To many concertgoers and audio buffs, the Loeffler songs for baritone, viola and piano were simply non existent, (i.e., until the Marlboro group performed them Wednesday.) In a style that mixes early Debussy and Faure with some of the natural late 19th century French idiom that nurtured Loeffler's music, these pieces were welcome indeed. Fifteen years ago I would have undoubtedly felt differently. However, we have passed in time the natural period of reaction to the ultra Romantic idiom of the late 19th century and early 20th, and can listen to these works as refreshing reminders of the salon style period pieces of that time.

Mr. Nickrenz on viola was superb in his interpretation, playing with a warm and clean tone. He gave a very sensitive performance and displayed a keen musicality in his approach to the music. Mr. Guinn has a pleasant enough voice, but seemed less sensitive and more forceful in the singing of the Loeffler songs. After one has heard Souzay in his approach to the French Art Song, it is difficult to empathize with another interpretation. This being perhaps a narrow view, one still received the impression however, that Mr. Guinn floated over much of the text. His diction was questionable.

Enriching Experience. The Mendelssohn Quintet only serves to reemphasize how underrated this composer has become in the last half century. Surely there are compositional pitfalls, "padding", overextended codas in the first and fourth movements, excessive use of the tremolo to build tension etc., but the lyricism and youthful exuberance of this early Romantic composer triumphs over all, leaving an impression that one has been enriched considerably by its performance.

Aside from some intonation problems, Mr. Ashkenasi had throughout the evening. (His tone was also a bit thin and forced), the Marlboro group played this piece better than it had the others. At times there may have been too vigorous an approach to the score, and in the tremolos the sound became quite muddy. Both violists, (Mr. Nickrenz and Mr. Naegele) excelled in the Mendelssohn, weaving in and out of the harmonious fabric with beautiful tones.

SCHOOL HAS NEW HOME. In Kingston. The New School for Music Study has purchased a building at 4537 Lincoln Highway, Kingston. The school finished its regular teaching schedule in Princeton last week and opened its doors in the new Kingston location on Monday.

The school, a music center devoted to research and development in piano teaching methods and materials, has rented space at 353 Nassau Street since 1960.

Its new Kingston property, a pre-Revolutionary structure of historic significance, is included in the book, "The Millstone Valley" by Princeton photographer Elizabeth Menzies. The original wing was apparently built as early as 1740, and two giant sycamores planted as the "bride and groom" trees by the first householders, are among the tallest in the area.

In renovating the building for use as a music school, every effort has been made to preserve its architectural authenticity. There have been almost no structural changes except for conversion of the garage into additional teaching space. One of the two living rooms has been adapted as a television studio for use in the school's preparation of audio-visual teaching tapes.

The school's new mailing address is Box 407, Princeton. The telephone number remains the same, 921-2900.

ITZHAK PERLMAN COMING. For Series I Concert. The Princeton University Concerts will present Itzhak Perlman, violinist, in the second concert of Series I at 8:30 p.m., Monday at McCarter Theatre.

The young Israeli violinist has been hailed, both here and abroad, among the most gifted of our time. Born in Tel Aviv in 1945, he came to the United States when he was 13 and studied at the Juilliard School of Music. In 1964 he won the coveted Leventritt Memorial Award International Competition and an extensive concert tour followed.

This past season Mr. Perlman appeared extensively in Europe and played some 50 recitals in the United States, including two in New York. He also performed as soloist with most of the major U.S. symphonies.

For his program in Princeton Mr. Perlman will play

ART In Princeton

THE WORLD TODAY

Is PAA Exhibit Theme. "International Outlook on Art," a wide and varied interpretation of the world today as artists see it, is the title of the current exhibit at McCarter Theatre, sponsored by the Princeton Art Association.

The range is wide, from Hiroko Yoshikawa's watercolors to Philip Moore's paintings of West Indian life, to Naum Savage's photo engravings. Many, if not all, of the artists have been represented in one man or group shows at galleries. Most are PAA members.

The exhibit includes oils and collages by George S. Greene including "Katanga"; Judy Glucksburg's "Leningrad," and "Study for Kremlin Cathedrals," and graphics by Margaret K. Johnson, including "Medieval Lane Adventure."

Also the unusual and whimsical works in many media by Lou Cicchini, art teacher at Riverside School, and recent oils by Hal Burnett of Gallery 100 who divided his painting time between this country and Positano, Italy.

MAE ROCKLAND of Princeton will have a one-man show of her paintings and etchings at Gallery 100 through November 27. An artist with a strong sense of history, the chief element of tension in her new work is that between space, or pictorial elements, and time. Through the looking glass of the Jewish experience in Spain, Eastern Europe and in America, and the use of thematic material ranging from everyday events through mysticism, she is raising serious questions about the purpose of life in our times.

Elizabeth Ruggles is represented with "The American," an oil, and Sylvette Kraus, a native of Puerto Rico who studied in Spain, with two oils "Amparo" and "Spanish Gypsy."

George Ann Gillespie's watercolor "Ankor Wat," painted during a trip to Cambodia, is on view, as well as her "Carcassonne."

The exhibit, which runs through November, also includes two oils by Eileen Shabender, several oils and graphics by Yvonne Burk, and paintings by Marie Sturken, Helen Schwartz, Kenneth McIndoe, Constance Bonatto and others.

EXHIBIT AT ARTISAN

Feature Drawings. Recent drawings by Janet Singler, Val Roy Gerischer and Helmut Von Erffa will go on display this Thursday at The Artisan, 30 Witherspoon Street.

Hours are 10 to 5, Monday through Saturday. The show will run through November 24.

"CONVERSATION" by Princeton artist Yvonne Burk is among the works of a score of Princeton area residents in the show "International Outlook on Art" currently at McCarter Theatre.

PLANNING THE VETERANS DAY PARADE: Princeton's two American Legion Posts will be the hosts for the Mercer County American Legion Veterans Day Parade set for 2 p.m. Sunday. PARADE HERE SUNDAY

Veterans to March. Veterans groups from Mercer County and surrounding areas will march to the music of nine bands or corps this Sunday, marking the Mercer County American Legion's observance of Veterans Day. The parade, being held here for the first time, will begin at 2 p.m. from Princeton Avenue, and proceed up Nassau Street to Monument Drive in front of Borough Hall.

There a brief ceremony will be held in honor of those who fought and died in all America's wars. Highlight of the ceremony will be an address by the Hon. Joseph Hanrahan, Judge of the N.J. Superior Court in Hudson County. Judge Hanrahan is a past department commander of New Jersey. The 21st Air Force Band will perform musical selections, and a solo will be sung by Dennis Alexander, a member of the choir of the First Baptist Church.

Colors will be presented and the firing squad of the VFW Post 5700 of Hightstown will issue a volley of fire. The traditional wreath will be placed by Commander James H. Hall and Mercer County Auxiliary President, Doris Hedgepeth.

Veteran groups in the line of march will include the 14 American Legion Posts in the county, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jewish War Veterans, Catholic War Veterans, World War I Veterans and Mercer County Veterans Council. Also marching will be members of the New Jersey National Guard, ROTC groups of Rider College, volunteer fire companies and their auxiliaries, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Khufu Masonic Lodge and Princeton and East Windsor first aid squads.

Other musical groups include, American Legion Post 93 Corps, the Colonial Minutemen from New Brunswick, the Volunteers from Lambertville, the U.S. Naval Sea Cadet Corps, Musicians Union Local 62, Reynolds Jr. High School, Upper Freehold Regional High School and Hopewell Regional High School.

ZONING IS TOPIC

Of League Meeting. A noted authority on zoning, Professor Edward B. Wilkins, will speak on "West Windsor's Unique Opportunity: Planning in the 1970's," at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Maurice Hawk School. This program is presented for the public by the West Windsor unit of the League of Women Voters of the Princeton area.

Dr. Wilkins is professor of regional planning in the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, Rutgers University.

Because West Windsor is a largely undeveloped township lying in the geographic center between Boston and Washington D.C., adequate and hopefully creative zoning is a unique opportunity for its citizens. Professor Wilkins will discuss the desired goals of zoning and the relevance of current zoning practices in West Windsor Township to its changing conditions. The importance and responsibility of local government in land use practices will also be considered.

All citizens of West Windsor Township and many residents of the surrounding communities are affected by decisions determining its future land use. Professor Wilkins' speech will make for wiser participants in township planning.

Turning Point in 1970 Season at Hand for Princeton Saturday

The question of whether Princeton's football team is good enough to finish in the Ivy League's first division will be decided Saturday in Palmer Stadium when the Tigers play Harvard. Game time is 1:30.

While each of its three remaining games is a separate hurdle for the Orange and Black, an ominous chain of events may be forming to drag the Princetonians down as far as fifth place. If they cannot beat Harvard, they will almost certainly lose to Yale in the Bowl. It would, thereafter, be quite possible for them to find it beyond their capabilities to rebound against a Cornell eleven whose steadily improving offense may well be more than they could handle on the last day of a disappointing season.

While the final score and the offensive statistics in Princeton's 45 to 14 victory over Brown are indicative of a wholly satisfactory performance against a team which lost its fifth straight, the Tigers nonetheless created further doubts over their ability to play a really solid game of football this season. There were several reasons for further misgivings, but towering head and shoulders above them all was the inescapable fact that the Tigers lost more distance in penalties than any Princeton team has within memory.

Debited for a total of 181 yards, they were called for virtually every infraction in the book and their captain, linebacker Dennis Burns, was requested by the officials as early as the first period to forego further action after he had traded blows with Brown halfback Gary Bonner just minutes into the contest.

This, obviously, is regretta ble but more serious from point of view of future performance is the fact that, two thirds of the way through the season, their execution is still often all turned. The number of penalties for illegal procedure and for clipping under punt returns testify to that.

Problems at Cambridge, Too. Harvard, too, is a team struggling to find the key to a good afternoon of football. Defeated a month ago by Columbia for the first time since 1961 and later manhandled by Dartmouth, the Crimson has edged Cornell and turned back Penn in Ivy action. Victories over Northeastern and Rutgers give John Yovicsin's team a 4-2 mark as November begins.

ONE FOR THE DEFENSE. The first Princeton touchdown scored by a member of the defensive platoon this season came ot Providence Saturday when safety Bob Wolfe (21) picked off a Brown pass and ran it 68 yards to the end zone. Score at 11:53 of first period brought Tigers even at 7-7 and they went on to win, 45-14. (Bob Matthews Photo)

QUICK LOOK AT HARVARD

OFFENSE: Has generally functioned better than expected after early predictions of trouble at quarterback. Lady Isgitgirl running back but has been able to move ball well against all but Dartmouth.

DEFENSE: No better than average. Has allowed at least three touchdowns to every Ivy opponent. Will be able to hold its own against Princeton running game, however, if Tiger air arm is mums in a sling.

CHIEF ASSET: Fairly good overall balance, plus great desire to send Coach John Yovicsin out with a winning year.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Backfield personnel hasn't the breakaway ability to score against a good defense. However, specialist Rich Sazaro, now all-time Harvard leader in points made kicking, is a constant threat.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Multiple offense behind balanced line T, generally using a flanker.

Sophomores Rod Foster and Eric Crone have shared the quarterbacking duties so far, with Foster having a good day against Penn last week and accordingly expected to start here. He averages 46.2 on his passing, runs on occasion, does the kicking and handles punt returns.

A season long search for a running back to help move the ball has resulted in alternating use of half a dozen ball carriers among them senior Tom Miller, junior Steve Harrison and sophomore Ted DeMars. Despite the constant shuffling, Harvard has scored three TDs or more against every team but Dartmouth — against which it did not make a first down until the fourth quarter.

Defensively, the Crimson has had the same season long problems to which Princeton fans have become accustomed. The opposition has been able to move the ball with disconcerting consistency, every one of Harvard's four Ivy opponents getting 23 points or more. If the Tigers can do at least as well, it should take some of the pressure off their occasional all over matched defense.

OFFENSE IN CHARGE. Tigers Dominate Game. Although Brown scored two touchdowns in the first half for the first time in six games, Princeton was never in much trouble at Providence. An early 7-0 lead for the home team was matched when safety Bob Wolfe ran 68 yards into the end zone with an interception, the 13th pass the Tigers have snared this season but the first that resulted in a touchdown.

This was followed by a distinctly surprising 42-yard field goal booted by sophomore John Bartges, who is now nine for nine on his placements (eight p.a.t.s and a field goal) since he replaced Jim Antal in this department two weeks ago. The three-pointer was surprising because of its accuracy from that far out — on the ensuing kickoff, Bartges' effort covered only 40 yards.

The game was unique in that the first six of the Princeton scoring efforts covered at

This new car is the best reason not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle.

In a year when every car maker seems to be giving you one reason or another not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle, it might be a good idea to listen to the best reason.

Volkswagen's Super Beetle.

It has almost twice the luggage space as the Beetle of yesteryear.

It has a longer-lasting, more powerful engine.

It has a new suspension system for a smoother ride.

It has a flow-through ventilation system to bring in fresh air when the windows are closed.

The interior is, to be honest, much nicer.

The floor, for example, is fully carpeted.

In all, it has 89 things you could never find on a Beetle.

So of all the claims you'll hear this year by car makers that their cars are "better than a Beetle," there's only one car maker with 25 years experience in small cars to back it up.

least 22 yards. After Wolfe's 68 yard jaunt and Bartges' 42 yard placement, this was the picture:

● Split end Pete Hauck capped an 80 yard drive by taking a pass from sophomore quarterback Tim Testerman that covered 22 yards for a touchdown.

● Hank Bjorklund ran off tackle for 67 yards and a touchdown, making the halftime score 24-14 when Brown went 81 yards for its final effort of the day.)

● Quarterback Rod Plummer passed to Hauck for 69 yards and a touchdown.

● The same pair repeated four minutes later for 24 yards and another TD.

The reserves produced the last score, halfback Willie Williams reaching the end zone from five yards out on the last play of the game. It was Princeton's 16th consecutive victory over Brown, to which it has not lost since 1954.

Bjorklund Top Runner. The Ivy League's rushing leader is now neither Dick Jauron of Yale, who was on top last week, nor Ed Marinaro of Cornell, the defending champion. Bjorklund picked up 220 yards against Brown giving him a four game total of 571 compared to 526 for Marinaro and 455 for Jauron.

With 788 in six games this fall, Bjorklund is within hailing distance of the one season Princeton record of 909 set by Cosmo Iacavazzi. A good day against Harvard could do it since he needs only 122 yards to top the mark that Cosmo posted six years ago.

Hauck in Record Book. Pete Hauck's three scoring passes Saturday put him in both the Ivy and Princeton record books. Yale's Mike Cavallon caught three in Palmer Stadium one chill November day in 1957 while the last Princeton end to do so was Howie Stanley against Navy in 1939.

Hauck now has 19 receptions this fall. He needs a dozen more to break the one season mark of 30 set in 1965 by Lauson Cashdollar and tied last year by Rob Burdley.

For the first time since the Rutgers game, Princeton had a good afternoon passing. The Tigers combined with this their best showing on pass defense (4 for 21 and 59 yards), but much of the latter was due to the poor performance of Brown's two sub-par quarterbacks.

The Orange and Black completed 11 for 20 and 200 yards. Plummer was 5 for 7 and 122 yards, Testerman 6 for 11 and 78. It was the sophomore's first appearance since the Dartmouth game.

Tigers' Teeth Grow Sharper. While a weak Brown eleven is no satisfactory measuring stick, Princeton's sixth game of the season gives further proof that only a super-team such as Dartmouth can shut out the Tigers' attack. Too much of it is based on the run rather than the one which Princeton walloped at Cambridge, 51 to 20.

The difference appears to be in the lack of ability on the part of this year's Princetonians to match the quality of last year's co-Ivy champions. Jake McCandless said last summer that it would probably be impossible to replace Scott MacBean at quarterback and Bob Hews and Tom Hutchinson on the defensive line, and neither the passing nor the pass rush this fall has come close to duplicating the calibre of play shown by this trio a year ago.

Whether Princeton wins Saturday is, fortunately for the Tigers, more a matter of how they play than what Harvard does. If they can eliminate much of the needless penalties called against them, and if they can provide some semblance of a passing game to blend with their fine ball carrying ability, they will nail down a first-division berth in the final Ivy standings and head for New Haven with at least a reasonable shot at upsetting Yale.

Can Inconsistent Little Tigers Steady Themselves at Steinert?

Saturday's 14 14 tie with visiting New Brunswick was no Greek tragedy for the Princeton High School football team but nonetheless it is always sad when a team is the author of its own downfall.

The Little Tigers played the entire second half as if possessed by some mysterious death wish; they committed two costly fumbles which allowed New Brunswick to steal the momentum and then committed a third when they were two yards away from the winning touchdown.

Now the question will be whether PHS can shake off the stigma of its New Brunswick performance and take out its frustration on Steinert. The team will travel to Hamilton Township Saturday for a 1 30 contest with the Steinert Spartans.

Like New Brunswick, Steinert has won only one game this season. It was trounced by Trenton High Monday 37 to 12.

PHS Collapses. What happened in the second half which saw PHS run the ball only six times in the third period, and four of those carries inside its own five yard line? "Your guess is as good as mine," said PHS coach Dick Wood. He pinpointed the decline, though.

It came on the opening kick off of the second half. After a nice return up to the PHS 40 Rob Johnson fumbled. "After that, it was all down hill," Wood commented.

After New Brunswick scored, Princeton again fumbled the returning kickoff. "It only takes a few big mistakes like that to take the edge off," Wood continued.

PHS scored in the opening minutes, capitalizing on a New Brunswick fumble on the second play from scrimmage which Tony Pederson recovered on the Zebra 36. Tailback Hohn Rossi tossed to John Hodges for a first down on the 20.

Then on a fourth and eight from the 24 Rossi connected on a run pass play to his end, Chris Latham. Ned Fry's conversion was perfect.

New Brunswick retaliated by running for three first downs in three plays, reaching the PHS 18. Hodges, however, intercepted a Tony Lombardo pass on the PHS four to end the threat.

Rossi Gets No. 5. PHS scored again in the second period, marching 76 yards in five plays. Three of them were Rossi passes, two to Daryl Boone, one for 34 yards, and the other to Hodges. Rossi, 6 for 10 in passing at this point, carried the ball over from the two for the TD — his fifth of the season to tie him with PHS fullback Lawrence Parker for scoring honors. His scoring pass earlier to Latham was his fourth of the season.

The remainder of the half was a pigskin mismash. New Brunswick fumbled the ball away twice but got it back again both times when Rossi was intercepted twice. Still, PHS was clearly the better team and it seemed assured that its final meeting with New Brunswick would end with victory.

Following its recovery of the PHS fumble to open the second half, the Zebras drove to a first down on the 6. Two plays netted nothing. Tackle Bob Drummond and Hodges stopped the visitors' third run, and on fourth down Latham and Dave O'Brien smothered the runner for no gain.

Jackson punted short to the 30. In two plays, NB had a first and goal again from the sixth. This time after a one-yard gain into the line, Marty McLaughlin passed to 6 3 Tom Salva for the score. New Brunswick's second try for a two-point conversion (PHS was off side on the first unsuccessful attempt) was stopped just inches from the goal.

Following an exchange of punts, the visitors took over from the PHS 41, scoring in four plays. The TD was an eight yard run by Tom Latka, an offensive guard, running for the first time this season as a back. He then ran the conversion over to give his team a tie.

PHS refused to quit. Parker got Princeton's only big play of the half when he raced from his own 38 to the New Brunswick 35. Interference on a fourth down pass to Latham by the Zebras' Tyrell Brown kept the drive alive. Parker got a first down on the 15.

Then on a third and four from the nine he made a driving run to the four for another first down. Less than two minutes remained. On the next play, a wedge, Parker fumbled on the two and NB recovered.

New Brunswick managed to dig itself out of the hole and PHS never regained possession. The win was the visitors' second in six games. PHS is 3 1 2.

The game marked the third consecutive time that PHS has scored 14 points. Ironically, the only time it scored more than two TDs it was defeated 34 21 by Trenton. Sophomore kicker Fry is 12 for 13 in extra point attempts.

COME TO BABY: A Pass from Princeton High School's LouJohn Rossi to Chris Latham (85) over New Brunswick tackle Bruce Heary looks to be "on the money" but Latham, who scored the Little Tigers' first TD of the game on a pass from Rossi, just missed making the completion. After taking a 14-0 halftime lead, PHS had to settle for a 14-14 tie. (Staff Photo)

MONARCHS BEAT HAC

Retain Division League. A touchdown midway through the fourth quarter followed by a two point conversion, gave the Monarchs an 8 6 triumph over Harrison Athletic Club Sunday, enabling the winners to retain a half game lead in their division of the Mercer County Flag Foothall league.

HAC scored on its first play from scrimmage when quarterback George Packard hit Greg Spady with a scoring pass. Dennis remained right behind with a 37 0 stomping of winless Center Sports.

In other games, Mall Tavern swept to its seventh straight win, 36 0, over Merry Go-Round Bar, the Ewing Giants outscored Perilli's, 38 2, and

PETRONE ON THE LOOSE: Hun's premier runner, Jack Petrone, who has scored 15 touchdowns in six games this season, leaves one Perkiomen tackler flat on the ground and is about to elude another for a 40-yard gain. Ready to offer interference is Pete Jones (25). Petrone scored three times and gained 119 yards rushing in seven carries to lead unbeaten Hun to a 37-6 victory Friday. It was Hun's 31st in a row without a loss. (Staff Photo)

Ivy Inn knocked off Joe & Lena's, 22-12. Bruce Sandvick fired two touchdown passes, one to Tony Boccanfuso, the other to Russ Perone, and ran 65 yards for the third score.

In action this weekend, HAC goes up against the Ewing Giants at 11 a.m. Sunday at Notre Dame High School field, and Ivy Inn meets Center Sports at Community Park.

BIG TEST FRIDAY

For Hun Eleven. "It will be a big test for us," commented Hun football coach Dave Leete on his team's meeting Friday at 2:45 with Pingry in Hillside. Leete watched Pingry crush Admiral Farragut last week, 44-0. "It wasn't much of a game," he said (Hun defeated Farragut, 20-8 in its opener) "but they are a very well balanced team both in running and passing." Pingry is 5-1 on the season. Hun 6-0.

Behind First Time. Perhaps it was the strangeness of being behind for the first time this year, but Hun waited until well into the first period before it got on the scoreboard against visiting Perkiomen Friday. Perkiomen had taken a 6-0 lead when Ken Clark scored on a tackle eligible play from 26 yards out. It was only the third TD scored against Hun this fall.

Then Hun, which Leete has called "the most explosive team we've had," exploded. And again the fuse was supplied by its phenomenal runner, Jack Petrone. Petrone got the first two scores, one from 48 yards away, to put Hun ahead 7-6 when Alan Chalifoux converted.

In the second period, the 5-9, 175-pound senior went up the middle for 10 yards. He added his third TD and 15th of the season in six games, in the third period, scoring on a three-yard run.

In all, he rushed for 119 yards in seven caries and 925 on the season. In addition, he returned two pass interceptions for long yardage and ran a kickoff back deep in Perkiomen territory so that if one were to add all the yards that Petrone covered in one manner or another against the upstate visitors, he would be around 300.

In between Petrone's scores, Pete Jones gathered in a pass from Chalifoux for a 40-yard scoring play and fullback Mike Guadagno bulled over from the 10. Chalifoux kicked three extra points and passed for two others.

Defensively, Hun was air tight as usual, especially on the line. More than once, a member of Hun's bruising defensive line was called for manhandling the visitors.

The Holes Are There. Overshadowed somewhat has been the offensive line. Once he gets by the line, Petrone is a magnificent runner. But he is operating behind an equally superb line. The holes are there virtually every time.

The six who have been springing Petrone loose are tight end Rick Ziegler, team captain; tackle Dirk Whitehead, guard Greg Cortina, center Rich Van Orden, guard Dennis Skrajewski and tackle Jim Langel. "Van Orden is the smallest guy in there and he's doing a nice job," commented Leete. Cortina, Whitehead and Skrajewski are simply hehemoths.

Petrone with two games to go has a solid opportunity to capture Delaware Valley scoring honors. He is one of the most exciting runners ever to play for a Princeton team.

He isn't big and he isn't that fast. But he can stop and change direction on a dime. He has amazing balance; trying to tackle him is like trying to flip a Corvette.

One official who has watched him remarked: "He runs with his head; he doesn't try to overpower you with his speed."

U-STORE, CONOVER WIN

In Senior Midget Football. The start of the second half of the Princeton Midget Football League this week saw the University Store blank the Rug and Furniture Mart, 27-0, and Nassau-Conover top Princeton Fuel Oil, 12-6. Play will continue Sunday at 1 at the high school field.

Four completions by Todd McKinley and two intercepions of Rug Mart quarterback Dave Baumer paced the U-Store attack. Bob McHugh gained 78 yards in 13 carries for the winners, while the Rug Mart was held to 30 yards in 22 attempts.

Defensive standouts for U-Store were Robert Plumb, McKinley, Dave Walker, Dave Lacy and Keith Wadsworth. For the Rug Mart: Warren Davis, Steve O'Brien and Paul Soderman.

Nassau Conover combined the running of Ken Bullock, a 47 yard run by Kevin Turner and the passing of Tony Ferrara for its win. On defense, Roland Alexander had eight tackles for the winners. He was assisted by Steve Hayden and Dan Clohossey.

Bill German's three pass receptions and the running and passing of Pete Barnett kept Fuel Oil in the game.

The losers' defense was led by Ed Frick, John Perone, Eric Ziolkowsy, Barnett and Germon.

J. P. CLEAVER GAINS

In Jr. Midget Football. J. P. Cleaver moved to within a half game of Hilton Realty last week in the junior division of the Princeton Midget Football League with a 14-0 shutout over Peterson Construction. Hilton (2-0-1) stayed in first with a shutout of its own, an 18-0 blanking of Sibson Associates.

Saturday morning at 9 at the Community Park field, First National Bank (0-0-2) will oppose Peterson (0-2-1) in the first game and Cleaver (1-0-1) will tangle with winless Sibson (0-1-1).

Led by Kevin Streater's 59 yards in six carries, Hilton rushed for 184 yards against Sibson. Also carrying the mail were Robert Willis, who scored one TD on a 25-yard reverse; Todd Miller and Gary Colluccio. Miller scored from the two and Colluccio from the one. They combined for 54 yards. Chris Wells, Jimmy McCarthy, Jimmy Thompson, Andy Priest and Mike Budd were defensive standouts.

Dave Robinson's 52 yards paced Sibson. Dave Miller, Win Brown, Chris Miller and Matt Adriance were the lead ception and Mark Danforth recovered a fumble.

Runs of five and two yards by Ted Henning and Stanton Brooks accounted for Cleaver's scoring. Roland Ward led the 121 yard attack with 49 yards, followed by Jon Arrington (23), Rick Miller (13), Henning (22), and Brooks (14). Ward and Brooks each had a pass interception. Leading tacklers for Cleaver were Morgan Mohrman, Tony Opperman, Jim Drahfield and Curt Tavelear.

Luther McKeller and Tony Lemar, each with 22 yards, and John Koethler, David Wilson and Chris Churchfield were the Peterson ball carriers.

On defense, Bob Cronin intercepted a pass and recovered a Cleaver fumble; Kim Beasley pilfered another pass and Jay Budd fell on another fumble. Bill Delano, Hawley Waterman, Cory Enster and Chris Morris led Peterson's in tackling.

PERKIOMEN IS NEXT

As PDS Resumes League Play. A 0 0 tie is the kind of game that can sap a lot of momentum from a team, es pecially one that had gotten used to winning the close ones. However, this is no time for the Princeton Day football players to dwell on what might have been, last Saturday against Mitchell Prep, with an important Penn-Jersey league game coming up against Perk iomen this Saturday.

Their record now at 4 1 1, the Panthers have two league games remaining, meeting Hun November 14 in the final contest of the season. A victory over Perkiomen would assure them of at least five victories in eight games and second place in the league, a far cry from last year's 0 8 cellar fin ish. They are 3 0 in league play to date.

Perkiomen is not as strong as it has been in recent years, when it was able to battle Hun on almost even terms, but the Blue and White will not have any decided edge in the con test, Psychological edge, if any, may be in favor of Perki omen, which will be playing in front of a large Parents' Day crowd.

Only 2 4 so far this season, Perkiomen has dropped three of its games to Chestnut Hill, St. Andrews and Hun, teams that PDS has never beaten, its other loss was to George, 26 14, a small plus in PDS's favor. Victories have been scored against Bryn Athyn, 42 6, and Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, 30 14.

The North Jersey School will be coming off a 37 6 pasting by Hun, when it meets the Panthers. Scoring first, last Friday, it managed to hold the Red and Black to 14 6 at the half, before being overwhelm ed in the third and fourth quar ters.

PDS Blocking Falls Down. The fine offensive blocking that enabled PDS to roll up so much yardage on the ground Wardlaw was missing against Wardlaw was missing against Mitchell Prep. The mi tial blocks were good, but the second and third ones that spring runners loose for long er gains were missing, ac cording to coach Dan Barren. The Panthers gained only 86 yards on the ground.

McCANDLESS AROUND END: Gains on the ground like this by Princeton Day quarterback Pete McCandless were hard to come by Saturday as the Panthers played to a scoreless tie against Mitchell Prep. Paul Lyman Photo)

Both teams matched each other on drive and desire, but the defensive units on both sides had the run s share when it came to holding off scoring threats.

Neither team got very close to the other's goalline in the first half PDS managed to move from its own five down to Mitchell Prep's 25, before a 15 yard penalty killed that drive.

In the third period Mitchell Prep took charge and moved to the PDS 10 on a forty yard drive, only to be hit with two 15 yard penalties. Later, the visitors drove again to the Panthers' 10, but this time Howard Vine recovered a loose football to halt a possible score.

Soon after PDS was able to move on the running of Terry Booth, David Claghorn and Peter McCandless, and then a pass from McCandless to Booth. However on fourth down on the Mitchell 15 yard line, a field goal attempt by Booth fell short.

Only a couple of minutes re mained when John Kalpin cov ered a Mitchell fumble around the 30, but Mitchell got the ball right back when a McCandless to Rob Norman aerial was in tercepted on the five yard line. PDS got one final chance, when David Claghorn intercepted a pass with just seconds left. Mc Candless had time for one play but was run out of bounds around the eight yard line.

HIGH GAME IS 187

In Women's League. Mary Hurlburt of Hamilton Supply Company rolled a 187 l a s t week, high game in the Princeton Women's League.

That and a 180 171 by team mate Evelyn Salley helped Hamilton fashion the high team series of 1068. Swift's Colonial Diner No 2 posted the high team game of 695. Au drey Kazimirovic and Pat Brown were high for the Diner with 162 and 170.

Margery Davison of Will's Shell Station rolled a 185 — 65 pins over her average. The Used Car Mart's Marilyn Sil vester had 184 183, and team mate Kitty Thomas, 181.

In the standings, Swift's Di ner is in first place with 44 points, followed by Cranbury Bank (40) and Used Car Mart and Hamilton Supply. The lat ter two are tied at 38 apiece.

TOWN TOPICS goes into every home and place of business in Princeton. Its their own figures, no other newspaper does half as well.

Zanfrini to Be Honored

Dedication of a lounge in memory of Princeton Uni versity's late head trainer, Edward G. Zanfrini, will take place Saturday morning at 11 in Jadwin Gym nasium. The lounge, to be known as the Edward Zan frini Memorial Room, will contain various trophies and awards which accrued to the late Tiger trainer during his career as one of the top athletic trainers in collegiate ranks.

More than 100 contribu tions toward the establish ment of this memorial were received by a committee headed by former Princeton football players James Blair '61, Cosmo Iacavazzi '65 and John O'Brien '65. Zanfrini's widow, Pat, is donating the memorabilia to be housed in the room.

A close friend to hundreds of Princeton athletes and known to them always as "E.Z.", Zanfrini retired from the University in June, 1968 after a career which saw him serve at Princeton from 1933 through 1943, transfer to Dartmouth for three seasons, and return to Old Nassau in 1947.

Described as "the con science of Princeton foot ball" and widely credited with a share in the success of Tiger grid teams during his tenure here, Zanfrini served as trainer in fall and winter sports at The Lawr enceville School following his retirement from the University until his sudden death on March 23, 1969.

What's the difference between a dead end cellar and a basement for living? Direct access to the great out-of-doors.

The modern all-steel BILCO Basement Door keeps unnecessary traffic out of first floor room, lets your inside stair serve only inside traffic. Your basement is always convenient and useful. Tools, lawn furniture, bikes, sleds -- everything moves easily in and out. Makes your basement safer, too.

For more living space downstairs — and less wear and tear upstairs — put a BILCO Basement Door on your home. Call us for free literature showing how to add the complete entrance or to replace your wooden hatchway if you already have the basement entryway.
